FRANK FOLLWELL ADDRESSES CONVENTION

Liberal Candidate for Hastings Riding in the upcoming federal election, Frank Follwell, spoke at the nomination meeting held at Centennial Secondary School last Wednesday night. Follwell won the party nomination over his contender Dr. John Hart.

Senior Citizens hold meeting

While the seven tables at Senior Citizens on Thursday were sweating out their games, Mary Cook was in the kitchen with a radio sweating out the world hockey game. At the end of the second period Mary said something awful and called out that Russia was leading 5 to 3. Later in the third period she came dancing out and said, "It's all tied up 5-5 and there's a scrap going on." About the 43. second mark she let out a whoop and said, "Henderson did it again, Canada won, Canada won 6-5." Cards were dropped and we all joined Mary in whooping it up good.

In all this commotion Nellie Montgomery and Myrtle Tanner proclaimed that Margaret Fitchett and Ada Bush were winners and that Ann Faulkner and Murn Staley also won a prize. The lunch was served by Gladys Elliott, Ann Faulkner, Florence Hough and Iva Ayrhart.

Looks like we should postpone the election of officers indefinitely or until our President, Fred Heasman, is back. Keep smiling Fred.

LOVE
Love at first sight is possible, but it is always well to wipe off your spectacles and take a second look.

They say that puppy love is the beginning of a dog's life.

Some man has said that love is an itchy sensation round the heart and that you cannot get at it scratch; but we heard it this way: Love is the conglomeration of an intangible affection, over which pre-dominates the insane desire to squeeze someone.

Merrie bowlers

The Merrie Bowlers began to roll on the 27th. Some managed to surpass their starting averages, others were just practicing. However with names like the teams have this year, it sounds like a bedlam. Isabel Hutcheon's "Belles" took five points leaving Lorna Wrightman's "Meat-heads" with two. There was a lot of dinging when Mildred Fraser's "Dingalings" also took five points and Bessie Newton's "Dingalings" grabbed off the other two.

The high single and only over 200 game was rolled by Dilly Montgomery, a nice 203. Barb Noble came in strong with the high triple of 574 and average of 191.

Village May Lose Some School Taxes

The possibility of Stirling losing some tax revenue was raised this week at council when a letter was read indicating that a group of local ratepayers planned to direct their taxes to the support of Roman Catholic Separate Schools, and perhaps his transportation to Belleville would be arranged.

Council estimates that about 12-15 children might be involved, but where the greater tax loss would be involved is that any Roman Catholic taxpayer has the option of directing his or her taxes to the support of the separate school, whether or not they have any family attending.

The present separate school area comes to within a few miles of Stirling, and there is an area between it and the village which is now designated by the taxpayers as public school support. Under provincial law, five or more Roman Catholic parents may sign a petition to have their taxes transferred, in which case the municipalities involved must

Follwell wins Hastings nomination, two ridings three-way contests

Frank Follwell, former parliamentarian, one-time mayor of Belleville, leading city realtor, active in community affairs and familiar personality in the riding of Hastings won the Liberal party nomination at a nominating convention held last Wednesday night at Centennial Secondary School.

The open convention, which drew about 700, (382 of them registered voters), was the first of its kind in Belleville-linked constituencies. It extended voting rights to anyone registered as a party member three days before the nominations.

Mr. Follwell, 62, was mayor of Belleville during 1945-47. In 1949 he first won the old Hastings South riding to become member of Parliament, retaining his seat in 1953. He was defeated in 1957 by Progressive Conservative Lee Grills, who is now retiring as MP for Hastings. Married with two children, he is currently president of the city's Chamber of Commerce.

In his speech seeking the nomination, Mr. Follwell said the Liberal party now has the "best opportunity" for winning Hastings in some time.

"If Frank Follwell is MP, this riding will not be neglected. It will get its fair share of every opportunity to share in the great prosperity of Canada," he said.

Contender for the nomination of the party was Dr. John Hart, 46, once a critic of federal Liberalism from Conservative platform. At the meeting, Dr. Hart publicly proclaimed his disengagement with his former party.

Dr. Hart was the only one of three nominees proposed to the convention to contest the Follwell nomination.

Dr. Lionel Dockrill, another city physician and a one-time Conservative who defected to Liberalism in 1965, and Belleville lawyer Douglas Boyle declined to let their names go before the voters.

When Mr. Follwell's nomination was announced, Dr. Hart said that his candidacy was declared the convention's unanimous choice.

The people of North Hastings have been the "forgotten" constituents of their federal representatives said Mr. Follwell, following his nomination for Hastings riding.

His solution to the problem is an office in the area, at Bancroft, to provide the nomination contact for its residents with their MP in Ottawa.

If elected, he would meet within 14 days with spokesmen of various community groups - local government, veterans' organizations - to discuss problems and recommendations, he said.

Special guest speaker to the nomination convention was Barney Danson, MP York North and Prime Minister Trudeau's parliamentary assistant.

Mr. Danson said, "We've come through and we've come through strong... because we have leadership which is strong." "We've had a prime minister who has the guts to make decisions on things which are sometimes unpopular, but always necessary; the sort of leadership we've been looking for in this country for a long time."

Follwell's nomination Wednesday night rounds off the Oct. 30 election lineup in Hastings, putting him against former Belleville mayor Jack Ellis, Conservative candidate, and Bancroft fuel distributor Eldridge Brethour, New Democratic Party contestant.

It was not for the reports of the national leaders and a few of the more prominent politicians in the major parties, it would be hard to know there is an election coming in progress, seemed hard to believe that half the time has passed between the vote and voting day, Monday, October 30.

The first principal step in the campaign was the nomination of candidates and the date of the two ridings which are in Stirling's area are now complete. In Prince Edward-Hastings, of which Stirling is a part, Progressive Conservative incumbent MP and former trade minister George Hees is contesting his seat against Liberal standard-bearer George Cunningham of Ameliasburg and Richard Lunn, who lives at Hillier and is representing the NDP.

The riding of Hastings, which lies east of here, finally threw a battle, said Lee Grills, the Progressive Conservative member for the past several years, decided to step down. Former Belleville Mayor Jack Ellis has taken on the task of retaining the seat for the PCs, while the Liberals nominated another former Belleville mayor and also a former MP, Frank Follwell to contest him along with the NDP's Eldridge Brethour from Bancroft.

Each of the three has a deputy returning officer, poll clerk, and the cost of renting premises if no village owned property is properly located.

If there is an election, it will be December 4, with advance polls the previous Monday and Saturday.

The meeting closed with the 4-H Benediction.

SPECIAL EDITION

The Stirling News-Argus, in co-operation with the Stirling Merchants Association is planning a special promotion, which will be officially announced in next week's paper. To provide maximum coverage to all residents within the Stirling business area, next week's edition of the News-Argus will be distributed to about 1,500 additional homes, which, plus the regular subscriptions, means about 3,000 families will read the paper that week.

Advertisers who wish to take advantage of this increased circulation service are asked to contact the publisher at 395-3321 if they wish to place advertising in this special edition. Such space should be arranged by Tuesday noon of next week, earlier if possible.

Regular subscribers are asked to note that due to the Thanksgiving Day holiday on Monday, October 9, the regular publication of the newspaper will be delayed until Thursday.

In conjunction with the Stirling Merchant's Promotion, the News-Argus will also run a special subscription price for both new and renewal subscriptions.

Fire Hall Offer Formally Signed

The official offer to purchase the property of Wells Ford Mercury Sales Ltd., for use by the town as a fire hall, was ordered signed this week.

The offer now goes to the car firm and its solicitors for approval. Once this is obtained and a search of the title to the property conducted, the deal can be closed. Tentative closing date is December 20.

Council discussed the matter of a survey, but this will only be done if during the search of the title, it can be proven this would be necessary.

Although buying the property this year, Stirling will not take possession until mid-1973 to allow the Wells' to build new facilities adjacent to their present showroom on the south side of Front Street.

Energetic Bowling League

June Wilcox was again high bowler on September 29 with a 210 single and 590 triple.

Other good games were bowled by Hilda Rose 227; Francis Merrick 201; Jane Vance 176; Elsie O'Brien 245 and Grace Tanner 188.

On that issue, the general consensus was that a minimum of two men would be required, which would probably cost about $10,000 each, and in addition there would be purchase of a car and maintenance costs on that alone.

It was also pointed out that other local communities such as Madoc and Campbellford, which have OPP detachments in their own area, have no better situation than Stirling. Even if there were police here, it would not necessarily follow that the situation would be cured or improved.

Ratepayers' Meeting Now Thing of the Past

Election talk was part of the agenda at this week's council meeting, but most of it pertained to the new regulations governing nominations and elections this year. Only councillor Fred Brandt intimated he will be stepping down from municipal life December 31. When the discussion came up about how to be nominated for next year, he commented "Well I don't need to worry about that, because I'm finished."

For no known reason, at least locally, the Province of Ontario has greatly altered the election procedures this year. Gone are the old ratepayers' meetings, where the retiring councillors and other elected officials were required to give an accounting of their stewardship. At that time, nominations were received, and the nominees had up to 24 hours to decline or stand, or in some cases, determine which office they wished to contest, if nominated for more than one.

Police Issue Shelved

If there is to be local police protection, it will be up to the next council to decide, was the result of a discussion of the matter Monday night at the regular council meeting.

Councillor Ed Klompaker told council he had received numerous complaints from residents, especially about the noise situations late at night and early in the mornings, particularly on weekends.

He asked if information could be obtained about possibly re-instating the use of village police instead of the present system, whereby the OPP must be called from Belleville, if anything other than local bylaw infractions is involved.

On that issue, the general consensus was that a minimum of two men would be required, which would probably cost about $10,000 each, and in addition there would be purchase of a car and maintenance costs on that alone.

CENTENNIAL REPORT

A report by Thom Reynolds from Centennial Secondary School, Palmer Road, Belleville.

Centennial Secondary School, Belleville, recently held their student council elections. Paul Whittam, a grade 13 student from Stirling, was elected as president of the student council.

He defeated Drew Gumsoul and Steve Gallinger.

Both Centennial Junior and Senior Chargers have played two football games, Junior Chargers sprung a 25-14 surprise on the Bayside Juniors while the CSS Seniors administered a 32-0 drubbing on the Bayside Seniors.

Kevin Solmes from Stirling for the Juniors collected two touchdowns passes from quarterback Rob DeJong while fumble recovery by Randy Nell and Glen Ellis provided two more Centennial majors.

On Friday, Trenton Junior Tigers defeated Centennial 13-12. The CSS Seniors were defeated by Trenton 12-6. With three minutes remaining in the game, Centennial quarterback Phil Easton hit flanker Dave McMullen on a 20 yard scoring pass.

Under existing legislation, any village which has more than 1,000 voters, must send a deputy reeve to county council sessions. With the enlarged population, Stirling as well as several other municipalities in Hastings County will be eligible for this office this year. It is estimated there could be as many as 11 new members of county council through this system and there is no place to put them, at the moment, when they arrive in Belleville for the sessions.

There is action being taken to try and have the ceiling lifted from 1,000 to 2,500 voters, which would eliminate this headache for a time at least. The only matter now to be decided is whether this change be brought about through provincial cabinet order - in council, or must it wait until the legislature meets, which won't likely be until early 1973.

It is understood that Clarke Rollins, MPP, is among those working on the problem and county council has also forwarded a resolution to Queen's Park requesting action.

Reeve Robert Anderson told council he had been talking with an official in Toronto this week and had been assured that the plan was almost ready to go to the minister for final approval.

The purpose of the Official Plan is to designate where residential, commercial and industrial growth will be permitted and in what stages. At present this is limited to what is termed "fill-in" building, until more sewage facilities are available.

Once the plan is approved, council can pass the related zoning bylaw, which is the actual governing portion of the legislation. This also provides for ways to change zoning requirements and how these can be approved.

nomination papers, then get any ten people, listed on the polling lists in the recent enumeration (provincial) to sign as supporters of the nomination. There is no limit to the number of papers any one person can sign, but each nominee must have ten.

Nominees must then take or mail these documents to the clerk some time between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. from Thursday, November 9th, through Monday, November 13th. Once this time passes, the clerk will verify the authenticity of the nominees' supporters and if more than the required number, for any office is filed, then declare an election, which must be held December 4 from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Advance polls will be held November 27 and December 2 for any who cannot vote at the regular time.

This is a brief outline of the coming weeks, and more details will be published and advertised in the coming weeks.

Hardy lilies are often held over until spring but it is much better to plant them, if possible, in the autumn or early winter. This is particularly true as applied to Lilium Anatum, which deteriorates rapidly over winter. Use plant food when setting out bulbs. If soil is very hard or filled with clay, work in a liberal amount of sand or peat moss.

Biggs says Ottawa interfering again

Everett Biggs, Ontario's deputy minister of the environment has accused federal officials of overstepping their jurisdiction in the field of pesticides control.

In a panel discussion at the Canadian Agricultural Chemicals Association conference in Vancouver, Mr. Biggs charged that the provisions of the federal Pest Control Products Act (R.S.C. 1970, Chapter P-10) for the control of the manufacture, storage, display, distribution or use of pesticides are an invasion of Ontario's exclusive legislative jurisdiction.

"In the opinion of the Ministry's general counsel, these provisions of the federal Act are beyond the authority of the Parliament of Canada and an intrusion into matters within exclusive provincial jurisdiction," Mr. Biggs pointed out. "This federal legislation doesn't just cover unsafe conditions; its purported authority to make regulations is virtually unlimited," he said.

"If, contrary to this opinion, these provisions are valid and regulations are made under them the federal regulations could cover all aspects of the manufacture, storage, display, distribution, or use of pesticides," Mr. Biggs said, "and therefore could 'occupy the field' and displace Ontario's own legislation and regulations."

"We are concerned," Mr. Biggs added, "that the federal Act covers too much territory and could jeopardize our own jurisdiction. This opinion is concurred in by counsel in the Ontario Ministry of the Attorney General."

The federal legislation has been enacted but has not yet been proclaimed in force.

COLD FLASHES?
Dear Margaret Brookfield:
I'm 51 years old and have been going through the menopause for the last several years. I've been wondering if a woman at this time might have cold flashes instead of the hot flashes you hear so much about. I think I might be having them.

P. N.

Dear P.N.:
Hot flashes, a common complaint among women in menopause, are sometimes accompanied by a drenching perspiration which can cause a woman to experience some chilliness immediately afterward. And women in the menopause may also sometimes find that their hands and feet feel numb or cold, even though there's no evident interference with the blood supply to those extremities. Yet cold as they are, neither of these symptoms are referred to as "cold flashes." To find out about your symptoms, who not check them out with a doctor, if they're related to the menopause and pre-sending difficulties, he might possibly prescribe estrogen replacement therapy to alleviate them. (This treatment is designed to replace the female hormones, which diminish during the menopause.) In many cases, estrogen replacement has cleared up hot flashes and related symptoms quickly and effectively.

Is Nothing Sacred?

Provincial legislators, in their wisdom, have made numerous changes in many things in recent months, since Premier William Davis assumed the leadership from John P. Roberts. How good or bad some of these will be must be left in abeyance for some time to judge. One that seems nothing short of ridiculous is the change in nomination system, whereby a candidate for office only has to get ten supporters to get on the ballot, and if not opposed, elected.

This may have some merit over the previous ratemakers' meeting system, but at least under it, the citizens, if they had the interest, could question their retiring representatives on their performance, a chance that is now gone, unless there is sufficient interest aroused to hold an all-candidates' night, which in smaller communities seems unlikely.

The final straw in this wholesale change is the five days allowed for nominees to file their papers. At the time allotted -- the days involved, which include this year November 11, Remembrance Day and the Sunday following, it seems to be a general consensus of opinion that our weekends are a time of rest and relaxation, and there may be a general drifting away from the strict observances many grew up under. But is it right and proper for the leaders of the province to decree that local municipal clerks must be on duty on Sunday, as well as Saturday, where most governmental offices are closed tight?

And included, not only a Saturday, but what is generally termed a holiday as well -- Remembrance Day to boot? That seems to be going a little too far.

It is a sad commentary that Remembrance Day is not observed as a truly national day, like several other dates of lesser importance, but to require electioneering seems to be a situation that calls for comment.

It is true, the present generation knows only what they read and hear once a year about this day set aside to honour the fallen war dead. The parades are generally growing smaller, as the numbers of veterans are diminished by death. But the spirit is still there.

We have had enough trouble trying to get just observances of this day as well as Sundays generally; why have it compounded by requiring municipal offices to be open and clerks on duty, and office seekers bustling about trying to find enough names to support their candidacy?

A Weekly Meditation

(By Douglas C. Tyrer)

With the children back to school, the summer has come to end and we launch into another busy fall term.

As we went for a drive with the family through the country-side we saw the harvesting nearly completed for another year.

A verse in Jeremiah 8:20 came to mind: "The harvest is past, the summer is ended and we are not saved."

The last phrase -- "and we are not saved," strikes a sad note does it not? How do we stand in the light of this verse of scripture? Must it be said of us "and we are not saved"? If so, now is the time for those who have rejected God's love and salvation to make their peace with God through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, who loves them and gave His life for them. "For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." (St. Luke 19:10).

Spring Brook WI holds meeting

The monthly meeting of the Springbrook W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Myrtle Cassidy with an attendance of twenty two ladies.

The president Mrs. George Williams opened the meeting with the singing of O'Canada, the Opening Ode and the Mary Stewart Collect.

The hostess then took the ladies on a surprise trip to the Alton Hadley farm. Mrs. Hadley greeted all the ladies and took them on a tour through the apple packing building. She explained the different processes the apples go through, some of which were the picking, sorting, packing and refrigeration.

Mrs. Hadley also mentioned that growing apples is a year around job, which consisted of pruning, spraying, mulching etc.

The group then returned to Mrs. Cassidy's home for the remainder of the meeting. The minutes of the August meeting were read by Mrs. W. Barlow and there was a short time of business. The collection for the blind was discussed and some members were elected to do this.

The tax rate for Stirling this year is nineteen mills on the dollar. As there was a considerable increase in assessment it was thought a lower rate would have been sufficient. Last year the rate was twenty mills, but a great many ratepayers will pay more taxes this year than last on account of the higher assessment.

Dental Topics

Anyone can have halitosis (bad breath) for a long time without being aware of it. The air expelled by the lungs does not come in contact with the nerves of the sense of smell. These nerves are located in the upper part of the nostrils whereas the air being expelled goes through the lower area of the nose.

Sometimes one may be alerted to this problem if the bad odour caused by the secretions which comes from bacteria-trapping crypts in the nose, throat, and sinus areas and from the lungs or if he wakes up every morning with a foul taste in his mouth.

Because the patient is generally unaware of his condition it becomes almost a social duty to tell him. This burden should be assumed by somebody close to him, and it should be done tactfully. It is then up to the sufferer to seek treatment. He should consult his dentist and also his physician so as to determine the cause and seek treatment.

If the trouble stems from the mouth, the dentist will restore the gums to good health, by performing all the dental operations that are necessary. More frequent and more thorough brushings of the teeth, and the use of mouthwashes or mouth baths may also be recommended.

If halitosis stems from the nose, throat, sinuses or lungs, the treatment will vary with the causes of the trouble. It generally is a medical problem, and the physician is the one who will prescribe treatment.

Why should you have to sprint to get a hot shower?

An oil-fired heater can give you up to 30 gallons of hot shower water in 20 minutes.

It's morning shower time in some homes, this is what happens. Dad gets on his mark. Sets. And there he goes. If the family beats poor old Dad to the shower and uses up all the hot water, he may not get a hot shower at all. Not unless his house has an oil-fired water heater.

Oil can heat water 3 times as fast as gas; 6 times as fast as electricity. So it makes a lot of sense that an oil heater is going to give your family more hot water faster for hot showers, and washing soiled clothes. Not to mention the pile of breakfast dishes.

Oil really does heat faster. If it's a fact we can prove. If you're not heating water with oil now, sprint to your phone and call us on our hot line.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

OCTOBER 8 - 14

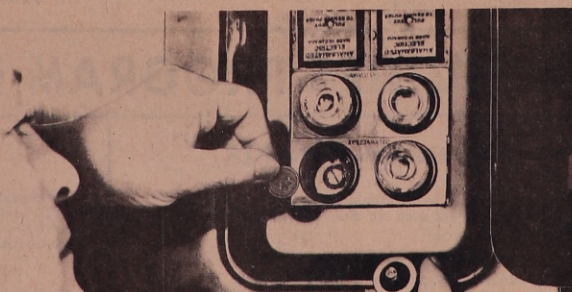

FIRE PREVENTION IS OUR BUSINESS

Most fire departments have free oxygen and other facilities available in emergencies, fire and otherwise. The Fire Chief may be your friend in great need. Know how you can reach him when the chips are down.

More than 45,000 homes a week are struck by fire. Prime causes are smokers' carelessness and misuse of electricity. Ask your Fire Chief today to inspect your home against fire possibilities. It costs you nothing.

People who use a penny instead of a proper fuse in a fuse panel, or who use a stronger fuse than the one blown, are either ignorant or stupid, endangering lives, including their own.

Mount Pleasant

(By Mrs. Percy MacMullen) John Holmes and his sister Miss Annie Holmes, and Frank Jeffs spent Saturday, Sept. 23rd in Madoc and attended the auction sale of Mrs. Kenneth Holmes.

On Sunday, Sept. 24th Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Demorest and family, Mar-mora.

On Monday evening, Sept. 25th Mrs. Ross Jeffs entertained the Pollock relatives and a few friends in honor of Miss Joyce Jeffs, an October bride-to-be. Joyce was the recipient of several miscellaneous gifts which she unwrapped and later voiced thanks for the party and gifts.

Dainty refreshments were served in the social hour.

Tom Cousens, Collingwood, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Couch and attended the Plowing Match at Sebringville.

On Wednesday evening, Sept. 27th, Mrs. Hugh Lyons entertained in her home several women and girls to a bridal shower in honor of Miss Joyce Jeffs. The co-hostess was Mrs. Frank Bailey. The group enjoyed several contests. Joyce unwrapped the miscellaneous gifts and voiced thanks to everyone. At the close a buffet luncheon was served. BUS TRIP TO PLOWING MATCH Stirling Horticultural Society sponsored a chartered bus from Bancroft to visit the International Plowing Match and Farm Machinery Demonstration at Sebringville in Perth County. Forty-three people enjoyed the trip despite the rain.

The parade in the afternoon was approximately a mile long and included a steam engine owned by the Agriculture and Food Department of the Province of Ontario, the Huron County Pioneer Museum Trailer, and a Calliope Steam Organ.

The Hon. Robert Stanfield, leader of the opposition and his group of entertainers were in attendance. He gave a special message and autographed a large array of cards and notebooks for the group around the platform.

Seventeen girls who represented their various counties as "Queens of the Furrow" each gave a short message on "The Value of the International Plowing Match." The winner was awarded an automobile at the banquet that evening. Each of the speakers gave various thoughts on the subject. In 1913 the first plowing match was held and the first tractor made its appearance at that time.

Those from here who attended were Messrs. Mac Sharp, Harry McAdam, Harvey Couch, Oscar Merrick, Kenneth Couch, Mr. and Mrs. John Morgan and Mrs. Percy MacMullen.

MOUNT PLEASANT MESSENGERS

Mrs. Raymond McConnell, Mrs. Stanley Williams and Mrs. Ira David were in charge of the Mount Pleasant Messenger meeting at the church hall on Sunday morning, October 1st. Twenty-eight members were in attendance.

The meeting opened with an interesting travelogue given by Robert Merrick. The pictures showed various scenes of their recent trips to the Prairie Provinces and to Mexico. Glen Merrick presided, Isabel Hoard gave the call to worship and all sang "Jesus Loves Me." The Bible lesson was read by Mrs. Ira David and Mrs. R. McConnell gave the devotional meditation. The offering was gathered by Kenneth Hoard and Chris Simpson and dedicated by Mrs. S. Williams who also read a special story. The hymn, "Jesus bids us shine" was then sung. Glenn Merrick read the minutes and the roll call. The next meeting will be held Oct. 22nd. For the program Linda Hoard read a selection and she and Margaret Hoard conducted a singing. Heather Hoard contributed a piano solo and at the close the group enjoyed games.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

This has been a difficult year for Ronny. He has seen a younger brother go to adopting parents. Then two girls whom he knew as foster children like himself were also adopted.

But so far an adoption home has not been found for Ronny. No wonder this nine-year-old is worried about his future and is constantly asking: "What about me?"

Ronny is an attractive youngster with a pleasant shy manner, very eager to be friends. Canadian-Indian in descent, he is in good health, perhaps a little small for his age, with dark eyes, dark hair and medium complexion. His glasses are for near-sightedness.

Ronny is pictured outdoors where he spends his happiest times. He would like to live on a farm. He loves baseball, camping and hockey. Fishing—summer or winter is his delight. Ronny is not a great student and had some difficulties in Grade three, but he was promoted and is now in Grade four. His special problem is with reading. However, he is an interesting boy who expresses himself well.

This lovable youngster needs a mother and father to love him and take an interest in him and his doings. They should be warm, affectionate people who understand he has memories of his past life and who will not pressure him for academic achievement. It will be best if he is the youngest in the family or at least if there are no children close to him in age.

To inquire about adopting Ronny, please write to Today's Child, Box 888, Station K, Toronto. For general adoption information, ask your Children's Aid Society.

Bethel UCW

On September 28 the regular monthly meeting of Bethel U.C.W. was held in the Bethel Church hall. "Autumn Hills" was the opening poem read by Mrs. G. Russett. The hymn, "Praise My Soul the King of Heaven" was sung. Mrs. William Heath was pianist. The roll call, a verse containing the word "Patience" was answered by 18 members, also one child was present.

Mrs. J. Carlisle was in charge of the worship service. The hymn, "Come let us sing of a wonderful love" was sung. The Scripture taken from parts of chapters 19 and 42 of the book of Job was read by Mrs. O. Lieble. The meditation of the theme "Patience" was given by Mrs. Carlisle. To have "Patience" we must have Faith. This was followed by prayer.

Several readings were given: "In His Steps" by M. S. F. McGee; "Life" by Mr. E. Sine; "My Prayer" by Mrs. J. Hagerman. The hymn, "It would be true" closed the worship service.

The hostess, Mrs. E. McMullen and assistants served a very tasty lunch and a social time was enjoyed.

"AREN'T THOSE PRETTY FIGURES?"

The 1972-73 Series of Canada Savings Bonds are a good investment, Barbara Scott and Micheline Pilon, Bank of Canada employees, take a closer look from the top of a $10-million stack of Canada Savings Bonds being prepared for shipment at the bank's main vault. Last year over 1.6 million Canadians purchased a total of $2.6 billion of Canada Savings Bonds. This marks the 27th year that Canadians have had the opportunity to purchase CSB's and initial indications are that the demand will be even greater this year than last. Since 1946 Canadians have bought over $34 billion in them. The new Series is now on sale and may be purchased at any bank, authorized sales agent or through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Pesticides controls now licensed

Ontario is preparing new regulations and licensing procedures to tighten drastically the control of pesticides, to keep the more toxic of these substances out of the hands of non-professionals, Everett Biggs, deputy minister of the environment, told the Canadian Agricultural Chemicals Association recently. This is the first time that a provincial government has taken positive regulatory action of this type in this field.

Mr. Biggs made this policy statement endorsed by Environment Minister James Auld at the association's conference at the Bay-Shore Inn in Vancouver. He told the association an amendment to the Environmental Protection Act, 1971 has been passed by Ontario to permit the new pesticides controls.

Under the new provisions, retail outlets for the more toxic pesticides will be licensed. These licenses will indicate the class or category of pesticide that outlets are permitted to sell and to whom.

"We are trying to make sure the right people get the right pesticides," Mr. Biggs said. "Those designed for professional use only, will be available only to professionals."

The new regulations will incorporate a classification system dividing these substances into four categories and restricting how they can be sold. Category 'D' will encompass the most innocuous, for example, pressurized insect repellants. Of the 2800 pesticide products sold in Ontario, 802 fall in the 'D' category.

Class 'C' pesticides used with reasonable care, would not constitute a health hazard or affect organisms outside their target group. To qualify under the 'C' heading, small amounts of these pesticides and their containers must be suited to disposal in ordinary land-fill sites. There are 1,065 pesticides in category 'C'.

'B' is the category for substances that present no hazard if used by experienced people, but should not be sold or used indiscriminately. This class includes the more concentrated formulas used in agriculture and forestry. There are 559 substances in this class.

Category 'A' compounds are the most restricted. These would be sold only to licensed exterminators, agriculturists, and other professionals. Many of these substances will be available only on a specific use permit. The outlets selling these compounds will have to be licensed and keep complete sales records. Only 375 products fall into this group.

"The home user will still have effective materials available to him; these new licensing rules will prevent the abuse of pesticides by inexperienced people," said Mr. Biggs. "It is the aim of the Ontario government and the Minister to channel pesticides solely to those areas where they are vitally necessary."

I.O.D.E.

The Marmora Chapter I.O.D.E. held the 14th Regional Dinner on Thursday, Sept. 28th. There were 11 members from the Hon. J.R. Cooke Chapter, Stirling, in attendance.

Mrs. Dennis J. Ayler, Regent of the Marmora Chapter, opened the meeting with the Salute to the Flags and the singing of O Canada. Mrs. Ayler welcomed everyone and asked Miss Rosa Spry, Provincial Councillor, to say the Grace. Following the toast to the Queen, over 100 sat down to a delicious turkey dinner served by the C.W.L. of Marmora. This was followed with entertainment by the pupils of Marmora Public School who sang four songs, directed by Mrs. Barbara Sanderson.

After an intermission Miss Rosa Spry introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. E. F. MacKay, Provincial President of Ontario, from Hamilton. Mrs. MacKay spoke on the Forward Look of the I.O.D.E. Work.

This was also the 30th anniversary of the Marmora Chapter. Mrs. A. Norwood invited all to attend the 1973 meeting to be held in Norwood on Sept. 27, 1973.

Head table guests were the Provincial President, Mrs. MacKay; Provincial Secretary, Mrs. Diemer; Miss Rosa Spry, Provincial Councillor; Mrs. Mc. Bride, Municipal Regent, Peterborough; and Regent of visiting chapter. The meeting closed with the singing of the Queen.

Personnel changes feature orchestra's fall season

The Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra has been rehearsing throughout the entire summer, every two weeks. Since its beginning twelve years ago, rehearsals have been a year round program, except on long weekends.

The orchestra meets in the recreation centre at Batavia each Sunday evening at 7:30. The string section arrives at 7:00 p.m. for a special practice session.

Each September there are changes in the orchestra's personnel. Members leave the area—students graduate from Secondary Schools, and go to college. Servicemen are transferred, and so on. Some musicians that started with the orchestra twelve years ago are still there, but one can say that each September a new orchestra gathers for rehearsals and a new season begins.

This year as in previous years the orchestra requires strong players—bass, cello, viola and of course violins. We also require experienced clarinet players and trumpet players. These latter two mentioned sections have lost members during the summer. I specify experienced because these sections require some strengthening. This does not mean that students are not welcome. They are just as welcome as the experienced player or the player who many years ago performed on a musical instrument and feels like taking it up again. But, each section must have a musician with some experience and background to carry the section and assist the other musicians who are just learning, or those with less experience.

There are no members in the orchestra who are actual professional musicians. They come from many walks of life, such as students, school teachers, business men, housewives, career girls and professional men. An Orchestra such as this depends and must rely on the devotion of each individual musician. They must be faithful members who enjoy playing their instruments, value the experience gained in belonging to such an organization, and be satisfied only with the applause from an enthusiastic and warm audience for a job well done. The members rehearse and play only for the love of music and many of them drive numerous miles each Sunday to attend rehearsals and then again to perform at Concerts. It is only with this calibre of people that an Orchestra such as the Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra can and will exist, if you fit this category and play any instrument suitable to a Concert Orchestra you are very welcome.

The Orchestra was founded for the reason: to give youngsters in our communities who are studying instruments, an opportunity to perform on their instruments; also to create enthusiasm among the youngsters who are not as yet studying music; for those who have studied music and just had their instruments hidden away in the attic because of a lack of an outlet to perform on their particular instruments; to assist the communities in their cultural development and bring this type of live music to areas that have never experienced this medium and to areas where professional groups would probably not venture.

The Orchestra has also brought in addition to the old standards, new music to its audiences and has performed works by Canadian and American composers. The Orchestra has only used, as guest artists, local talent, which is another reason for the existence of The Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra—to give the youngsters in our own area a chance to perform as soloists and gain this necessary experience.

The Orchestra is a recognized member of the "Ontario Federation of Symphony Orchestras."

It is also the first and only regional orchestra in the Provinces of Ontario covering four Counties at the present time.

As mentioned before, rehearsals are held in the Batavia Recreation Centre every Sunday at 7:30 p.m. We are most grateful and appreciative to the Bata Shoe Company for their generous donation of this rehearsal area.

Interested spectators are not only welcome, but invited to come and listen through rehearsal sessions. Parents who want to have their children gain an interest in some musical instrument have the opportunity of bringing their children to rehearsals and watch the Orchestra in action. This is an ideal situation for a youngster to hear and see the various instruments individually and to ask questions if he or she wishes.

The motto of the Orchestra from the start has been "Devoted to Better Music and Musical Appreciation." With devoted musicians, receptive audiences, assistance from local communities, the Orchestra shall continue to uphold and achieve its objective.

$10,500 grant for ice control

The Honorable Leo Bernier, Minister of Natural Resources and Clarke T. Rollins, M.P.P. for Hastings, announce the approval of a provincial grant in the amount of $10,500 to the Mohr River Conservation Authority for a preliminary engineering study for ice-control dams in the City of Belleville.

An ice and flood control study carried out recommended the construction of a dam at the Lott site for frazil-ice control and ice storage to eliminate the flooding caused by ice-jamming.

As a result of model testing, it was concluded that one dam at this site was not sufficient and that it would be necessary to construct a dam at the Lott site for frazil-ice control and a dam at College Street for ice-storage.

The City of Belleville as the main benefiting municipality will bear the major portion of the Authority's share of the cost.

WATER CONTROL

Control of marsh water levels is an important part of management to insure maximum use by waterfowl and that valuable fur-bearer, the muskrat. Ducks Unlimited controls range from simple earthen dams to more sophisticated structures, such as a four-bay reinforced concrete, stop-log control. Equipped with 8 six-inch stop-logs, such a dam holds back 4 feet of water. Removing one row of logs lowers the level 6 inches, conversely, adding one row raises the level 6 inches.

BOB'S

SERVICE WITH A SMILE

Win a trip — save money too

Stirling shoppers get a chance at something new this week — a chance to win an all-expense paid trip for two to Nassau, in the Bahamas Islands, just for the cost of making any purchase of $1.00 or more in any of fifteen local stores.

The Stirling Merchant's Association was formed late last month by those participating in the contest. This promotion is designed to create interest in shopping in Stirling, and at the same time give the shoppers a little extra for their money.

The contest will run until December 23rd, when the draw will be made in time to allow the lucky winner to have the trip as an extra Christmas present.

Rules of the contest are simple — entry forms are obtainable at any participating store, with any purchase of $1.00 or more, but it will be up to the shopper to fill them in. They can be deposited in specially marked boxes of any participant; there will be a skill-testing question to answer; owners or managers of businesses involved and their wives are ineligible; the winner has two weeks from the date of the draw to choose his trip time; the winner may take a $500 cash award in lieu of the trip if unable to make suitable arrangements; and the trip will be arranged at the contestant's choice of time.

The team standings are now:

Westenders	17 points
Selects	16 points
Ding-a-lings	12 points
Idlers	11 points

As a special feature connected with the contest, the Stirling News-Argus arranged this week to distribute 3,000 copies of the paper, double the usual circulation. This covers every home within about 15 miles from Stirling.

Also a special bonus, the News-Argus is offering new subscriptions for the price of $3.00 during the contest term, and, for those who renew during that time, a discount of 50 cents if the subscriber brings a stamped contest coupon from any other participating store to the News-Argus office. The special prices apply only to yearly rates, which are presently $4.50 per year.

Thursday Night Mixed League

On Oct. 5th the Idlers took 5 points over the Ding-a-lings with 2. The Selects won 4 points playing the Westenders with 3. Bob Corbett won the men's high single with 232. The high triple and high average are held by Ralph Parks with 614 and 215. Daisy Corbett won the women's high single with 187. Sylvia Edgar held the high triple and high average with 533 and 199.

Senior Citizens hold meeting

The Senior Citizens had another day of fun on Thursday. Vice Pres. John Kane was again in charge and although Pres. Fred Heasman did not attend the meeting, we are happy to know that he is home from the hospital and doing nicely. John Kane donated several new decks of cards to the club and was thanked for his kindness.

Ernest Broadworth and Mabel Brooks took the prize for high and Helen Williams and George McMullen got the low. The rest of us were just as good players but we didn't want to show off! The nice lunch was served by Edna Campbell, Mabel Smith, Martha Wood and Erin Munro.

There will be a bus of Senior Citizens leaving for the Winter Fair on Nov. 14. Members wishing to go better get in touch with Lil Heasman soon, as it is reported to be filling fast. Last Tuesday 49 of us enjoyed the colour tour of the Gattineau Hills. The week previous several of our members took the 8-day tour to the east coast. It seems that one of our senior male members got into some sort of a tangle with a strange lady and came out of the huddle with her hair net sporting from the buttons on his coat sleeve. No names mentioned and it will have to be remembered as "The Hair Net Mystery." On this tour Lil and George Heasman celebrated their wedding anniversary on Sept. 26. Several of their friends saw to it that a proper dinner was arranged, bunting wedding bells and all. One day later on the 28th it was Lil's birthday anniversary and the doings continued.

There is a possibility that Pres. Fred may be with us on the 19th and 18th, we will proceed with the election of officers.

During July of this year River Valley Women's Institute continued their annual project of transporting the children to Belleville for instructions in swimming at the Kinsmen's Pool. Mrs. Glenn Bush and Mrs. Roy Tucker were the convener.

Forty-three children took the course and the parents paid $186.00. The River Valley children were charged four dollars each and those outside were charged a higher rate. The bus cost $160.00 and use of the pool was $172.00. River Valley Institute paid the difference of $146.00 as the special project. RICHARD LUNN

ELRIDGE BRETHOUR

Brethour, Lunn, carry NDP banner in Hastings areas

Being in the unique position of serving two federal political ridings, The Stirling News-Argus is trying to present all voters with as much information as possible about the various candidates and their campaigns.

The New Democratic Party has nominated a candidate for each riding. Elridge G. Brethour, 40, from Bancroft is contesting the Hastings riding, formerly represented by Lee Grills of Belleville. He is campaigning against two former Belleville Mayors, Jack Ellis, who is trying to retain the seat for the Progressive Conservatives, and Frank Follwell, who is a former M.P. and is carrying the Liberal Banner in this election.

Brethour is the owner of a fuel business, and is married with two children. He is a past president of the Madawaska Valley Tourist Association, and treasurer of the Eastern Ontario Tourist Coordinating Council. He is also a member of the Bancroft Masonic Lodge and the Royal Canadian Legion.

Richard Lunn, 45, of Hillier Township, in Prince Edward County, was the NDP candidate for Hastings in the recent Provincial Election. Educated in Wellington, he graduated with an honors degree in history from Queen's University, following three years of War service with the RCAF.

His business life has centered on the journalism field, working in various capacities with the Kingston Whig-Standard, Globe and Mail, Toronto Daily Star and Star Weekly. He is currently vice-chairman of the Journalism Department of Ryerson Polytechnical Institute.

He also has been active in national affairs, being a delegate to a United National conference in The Hague, Netherlands in 1970, and has also worked for the Food and Agriculture Organization of the UN as an information officer in India.

Married with five children, he shares with his wife, Janet, an interest in history writing. In 1967 they published the book, "The County," a history of Prince Edward County. He also published two high school English literature texts, and Mrs. Lunn has written a children's novel. Both candidates were nominated at conventions held last February.

During the present campaign they have joined the picket lines at the Ontario Hydro Head Office in Belleville; spoken to students at Centennial Secondary School, and appeared on CJBQ's open line show, "What Do You Think?"

Both candidates participated in the all-candidates night at Centennial Secondary School Wednesday night, and have spent the major portion of their campaigning visiting families at home in their respective ridings.

Mrs. Gerald Brooks read the minutes and correspondence. Mrs. J.L. Donohoe gave the financial statement and the statement for the Centre was written on the blackboard.

A copy of the two resolutions that will be coming up for consideration at the Trent Valley Area Convention was read.

The Convenors reports contained the following: Mrs. Vernon Harry: Be sure to use your franchise and also read your Home and Country; Mrs. Ernest Carr: Tell of the graduation ceremonies of Bob Morrow at Trent University; Peterborough; Mrs. Glenn Bush: Read a message "For Home and Country," written by Dianne Gunning in the Milk Producers Magazine.

For public relations Mrs. Percy MacMullen displayed a picture of Linda Shoultice of Grey County who was named "Queen of the Furrow" for the Province of Ontario at the Plowing Match at Sebringville. The A.C.W.W. Convenor reported $1.94 in the penny jar for September. She read items from "The Countrywoman Magazine" outlining the Golden Jubilee Conference in New South Wales; also the 50th Jubilee Conference of Queensland. Among those in attendance were Dame Alice Berry D.B.E., a former president of A.C.W.W.

The November meeting will be held at the Centre based on Family Relationships.

A committee was appointed to purchase individual gifts for our link institute in England.

Mrs. James Hoard sang, "Our Best to You," with Mrs. Philip Conley as accompanist.

SPECIAL GUEST
Mrs. Percy MacMullen introduced the guest of honor, Mrs. Roy Tucker, president of Hastings West District. She has been a very valued member for the past 15 years and River Valley Branch is pleased to have one of its members in this office. She has always been interested in the World Wide Institute Organization.

Mrs. Tucker in her interesting message stressed the value of keeping the Community Spirit at River Valley. As our representative, she brought a message from the last meeting of Hastings Historical Society which was a birthday party. She said they will need W.I. support when they move to their new building.

Her special message for the afternoon told of Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir. She displayed their pictures with brief, personal items.

Her message told of their parents, their home life, ambitions, education and courtship. They were married in 1907 and later

Lord Tweedsmuir served as Governor General of Canada. Lady Tweedsmuir promoted the historical records in book form of each Branch, as she thought it wise that this be preserved for future generations, thus The Tweedsmuir History Books were instituted in the Branch Institutes.

Mrs. Roy Bush voiced thanks for the interesting and informative message and presented Evva with a cup and saucer and a floral bouquet on behalf of River Valley Branch.

Mrs. E. Carr read a poem, "The Clothes Line" and Mrs. Charles Wilson read a Thanksgiving poem.

The meeting closed with the Institute Grace and everyone adjourned to the kitchen where the refreshments were provided by Myrtle Rosebush, Jean Kane and Flossie Irvin, and were served at tables with floral centrepieces as decoration. At the close of the social hour Mrs. Ross Bush voiced appreciative thanks to all who had made the afternoon a success.

FAREWELL PARTY

(By Mrs. Lindsay Tanner)
Minto Community Hall was filled Wednesday night when relatives, friends and neighbors gathered to honor and bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. George Sine and girls who are moving to Stirling, as they have sold their farm. Mr. Ivan Sines acted as chairman. He expressed regret in losing George and Marguerite and family from our community and spoke very highly about all the Sine family.

Mrs. Lindsay Tanner led in community singing with Mrs. V. Hagerman at the piano. Readings were given by Mrs. Tom Clements, Mrs. Frank McGee and Mrs. Everett Sine.

Roger McGee sang, playing his own accompaniment on the guitar. Mrs. Ken Lang and Miss Kathy Ketchen rendered several selections on violin and piano.

Mrs. Ken Sine then read the address and George and Marguerite were presented with a pair of living-room lamps, a gossip bench and an urn. Mary Lou with a corn flower candy dish and Heather with jewelry on behalf of the community. George and Marguerite expressed thanks and appreciation to all for the lovely and useful gifts, also to everyone who helped with the party, and invited all to visit them in their new home. Mary Lou and Heather also expressed thanks for their gifts. Rev. Cox, Mr. Elliott (Marguerite's father) and Paul Heagle also spoke briefly.

"For they are jolly good fellows" was sung, followed by the Queen. Lunch was served and a social hour enjoyed.

Merrie bowlers

The Merrie ones really went to town this week. Ruth Glover rolled top with a high single of 289, along with a 239. She, too, had high triple of 699 and right now holds the high average of 198. She had competition though with Barb Noble, a 210; Isobel Hutcheon 212, 218; Tillie Prest 203; Lillian Arbuckle 200 and Dilly Montgomery 212. It's sure going to take keen bowling to reach that 198 average, but just watch them try.

Bessie Hewton's "Dingbats" hogged the whole 7 points from Isabel Hutcheon's "Belles." Those "Meatheads" of Lorna Wrightman's came through with 4, leaving Mildred Fraser's "Dingbats," ding at 3.

Mrs. Myrtle Cassidy on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Harper Bateman spent the weekend in Toronto and Mrs. Doug Bateman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Sam McIlwaine and Mrs. Bill Amin and Charene.

Thanksgiving

The Thanksgiving Holiday, which was celebrated this week, is one day in the year when people can reflect on their personal and collective enjoyments, which would make a healthy list if really considered. During the holiday period, churches held special services, featuring songs and messages of thanksgiving to God for His bounty. Family celebrations included the traditional dinner, which since that first feast in the early 1600's, has marked a time of fall festivity, after the harvest is completed.

While citizens would likely find lots to complain about in this age, in this country, is a privilege we would not wish to trade with many others in the world. Just a few of these are:

- the right to worship in the church of our choice, without fear of the church being closed by state interference;
- the right to work at the employment of our choosing, and also to change employment if desired for any reason;
- the right to purchase essential and luxury products in the style of our own choosing, and to refuse acceptance for reasons of quality or other valid criticisms;
- the right to support and elect the candidates for any level of government we may choose to support, according to the dictates of our conscience, without fear of arrest for non-violent opposition;
- the privilege of travelling and studying this great country in which we live, within the financial means of each person, and according to each different taste and selection;
- the right to live in the residence of our choice, governed only by restrictions of health and finances.

This may indeed be a partial list. Each person or family may find numerous additions which come within their personal sphere. No list could reasonably comprehend everyone's feelings in this regard. These are only offered as an initial basis for some thinking about what we can do and enjoy.

The right step

The announcement of the Nassau Trip promotion in this week's paper is an excellent example of how businessmen can co-operate in Stirling, if given the proper leadership and opportunity to participate. The newly-formed Stirling Merchants Association is trying to get something going in the village, with the sole intent of promoting the community as a shopping area for those within its environs. There are doubtless some goods and services which cannot be found here, but at least there is an effort being made to promote what is here.

The initial secret of this success was the response of about two-thirds of the merchants contacted about the promotion. A letter was mailed to those whom it was felt would benefit from such a venture. A time limit was given and reasonably abided by, by those interested. It appeared that maybe ten would participate, but fifteen are involved. In the two meetings held to arrange details, there was a good majority present, and decisions made were with the understanding that others would agree with the ideas accepted.

The future success of this particular venture will depend on each individual participant making the most of it. If the general shopping public takes the attitude that it can benefit by shopping at local stores not just those involved in the promotion, it will help the community generally. The basic idea of this campaign is to show people that shopping here is better for them, not just more dollars for this or that merchant.

This first step could lead to better things for the village. If the business community is strong and healthy, it means better conditions for all in the area. And if we have a strong local situation, it means that other associations and groups within the area will benefit. By putting the name Stirling foremost in people's minds, we can ultimately make it a centre for more and better things to come.

Do You Remember?

25 Years Ago

Monday morning a machine shed and contents, including binder, mower, a circular saw, etc., were destroyed by fire on the farm of Arthur Reid who resides on the 11th Concession of Rawdon, northeast of Spring Brook. A spark, generated from a gas can striking a metal object is thought to have ignited the gas which was being transferred from one receptacle to another by Mr. Reid's son, Morton.

Announcement was made yesterday by Principal J.L. Good of the Stirling High School, that Miss Ruth Rose was the winner of the Mr. and Mrs. R.G. Lawlor Memorial Scholarship, value $60.

Mrs. E.B. Finkle, Holloway, entertained at her home on Tuesday afternoon in honor of Miss Dorothy Mitts, a bride-elect of this week.

Stirling Village Council voted $50.00 to the Wollaston Relief Committee to aid the tornado victims in the Coe Hill district at the regular monthly meeting held in the Council Chambers Monday night, in answer to an appeal tabled from the Committee. Reeve Wm. C. West presided and all members of Council were present.

Wednesday afternoon of this week, the Stirling Girls' Softball team journeyed to Tweed, resulting in an all-over victory of a score of 38 to 7. The batters showed their best with 8 home runs and a score of 13 to 1 at the end of the first inning. The winning of this game entitled the Stirling girls to enter the playoffs with Madoc.

Not long ago a salutary lesson was given to these drivers. Some annoyance has lately been caused by young men walking or driving home about the midnight hours and making the night hideous with their yells. It may be fun for them, but there are villagers who object to being awakened by needless and unlawful noise. Those who have cause for complaint hope that a warning through the News-Argus will be sufficient.

Some stringent legislation against automobiles will be required to satisfy the farmers of Ontario. The latest complaint is that the attendance at women's institutes is falling off because of the reckless speed of motor cars using the rural roads, and the disregard of all speed laws. Complaints have been sent to the superintendent of farmers' institutes, and will be laid before the government.

TREMENDOUS TRIFLES

THE LACK OF INSURANCE THAT EXPOSED THE BIG-TIME SWINDLER

Because he overlooked a little matter of taking out insurance to cover his supposed vast holdings, a big-time swindler was exposed. Facing prosecution, he shot himself.

F. Donald Coster began his crooked schemes as a young man. Shortly after 1900 he started with a "human hair swindle," and progressed through several rackets and aliases. He was convicted of a felony. In World War I he disguised his identity sufficiently to obtain employment investigating the activities of alleged spies. When it developed that he was more crooked than some of his subjects, he disappeared.

Later he reappeared with the name of Coster. Assisted by a brother, he gained control of a number of small drug stores. This chain he made the stepping stone to a grand scheme to obtain control of the McKesson-Robbins Drug Company and use it as a front for huge swindling operations. Coster succeeded in becoming president of McKesson-Robbins. From this vantage point he built up a vast but completely imaginary empire of crude drug holdings. These "assets" he valued at $18,000,000 at the time of his exposure. He listed fanciful factories in remote sections of Canada.

OPERATION LITTERLIFT

A group of 22 boys with four leaders all members of the Carstairs lacrosse team trekked nine miles into an Alberta wilderness park last summer.

In the course of a single long weekend in the depths of Banff National Park they collected 2200 pounds of garbage.

One campsite alone gave up 600 pounds of bottles, cans and broken glass. "I've seen pigsties in better shape than this," one of the boys commented.

It was 35 man-days of hard work for these young people, picking up the offal from lazy or careless campers. Then they had to carry the junk to meadows large enough to allow a helicopter to land.

For some of the boys, this meant lugging 80 pounds of garbage across a river bed and through muskeg.

All this was collected in areas where motorized transport is forbidden by law. The group had to have special permission from Alberta's Director of Parks to rent the helicopter from collection points to the Banff-Jasper Highway.

All this was collected from areas frequented by experienced hikers and campers; people who travel light because they can't drive into their campsite. These are people you would expect to know better. These are people who should know enough to pack out what they pack in. It happens in Ontario's wilderness parks too and it still surprises me. The people who believe in getting back to nature should really be trustworthy. We should be able to count on them to preserve what they enjoy. Maybe people are basically stupid.

You're almost tempted to believe that when you see what they do.

Not long ago, Arizona dug into a roadside litter control campaign. They set up hundreds of litter receptacles and signs in advance reading: "Deposit Litter Ahead One-Quarter Mile."

They had to change the lettering on the signs to read: "Litter Containers One-Quarter Mile."

You guessed it. People took the signs literally and started strewing their waste over quarter mile stretches of roadway as soon as they saw the signs.

Discouraging isn't it!

AT MEAFORD

The occasion was the official opening of Meaford Water Pollution Control plant, a $1,157,000 sewage treatment plant.

The plant has a design capacity of 860,000 gallons per day, providing primary and secondary treatment to purify the sewage from a community of 4,000 with some commercial and industrial water waste to boot.

The cost was shared between the town and the Provincial government.

It's the first really good sewage treatment system the community has ever had.

And the local pride and confidence in the system is amazing. On the dignitary stand for the ribbon cutting were, among others, Mayor Donald Ferguson, Environment Minister James Auld and assistant deputy minister D.S. Caverly, who is in charge of water management in Environment Ontario.

The idea was Mayor Ferguson's. In the middle of his speech to about 50 people at the opening, he decided to illustrate the quality of the treatment operation.

So he turned and said: "I now invite Mr. Auld and Mr. Caverly to join me in a glass."

Plant operator Jim Krieg, with newscast cameras on his heels, dipped a glass into the outflow from the treatment plant and filled it with water.

He passed it up to the Mayor, who raised it to his lips, swallowed and passed it to the other two.

The Mayor and Mr. Caverly tasted it without comment. Mr. Auld sampled it like a wine connoisseur and remarked, "A good body."

It was spur-of-the-moment. It was frivolous. And it took a certain amount of confidence in the plant and some small bit of nerve.

But that little incident told more about the art of sewage treatment as developed by the Ontario Water Resources Commission in this province and as it is continued by the Ministry of the Environment than any number of speeches.

You can remember that long after you forget the words.

Farm sales over $10,000 increase

A decrease in the number of economically marginal farms and an increase in the number reporting sales of $10,000 or more in 1971 was reported recently by Statistics Canada.

In its publication dealing with Census-farms by economic classification, the bureau reported that farms with sales of $10,000 and over increased to 113,192 in 1971 from 95,032 five years earlier, and represented 31% of all census-farms, compared with 22% in 1966.

On the other hand, the number of farms reporting sales under $5,000 decreased to 170,047 from 237,857, a decline of 29%. In comparison to 1961 figures, the shift was even more pronounced. In 1971 there were barely half as many farms in the under $5,000 category as there were ten years earlier. It is obvious that the decrease in the number of marginal farms is an important element in the declining number of farms in the agricultural industry.

Based on criteria used by Statistics Canada in classifying farms by product type, two thirds of the farms with sales of $2,500 or more were grouped into three categories: (a) general cattle-hog-sheep farms (b) dairy farms and (c) wheat farms.

The first classification increased to 90,000 in 1971 from 71,000 in 1966 — the largest increase among the three classifications. This was mainly due to an increase in this type of farm in the Prairie Provinces. The number of dairy farms increased in Quebec, but a corresponding decrease in Ontario kept the national total more or less unchanged since 1961. Wheat farms dropped drastically in number, to 34,000 in 1971 as against 71,000 in 1966, while the number of small grain farms increased in almost every province. These changes were mainly due to the federal government's LIFT (Lower Inventory for Tomorrow) program, which resulted in many prairie wheat farmer shifting their resources to small grain production and livestock enterprises.

A FORUM ABOUT MATURE WOMEN

PREGNANCY IN MATURE WOMEN: WHAT ARE THE CHANCES?

A woman in her 40's may sometimes think she's pregnant when she's not. The changing pattern of her monthly cycle can cause that confusion. Yet, her chances of conceiving at age 40 are about half those of a woman 35 or under, according to Dr. Shepard Aronson of the New York University Medical Centre.

"Anatomically and physically speaking," Dr. Aronson says, "the mature woman produces either no more eggs, or essentially infertile ones." After 45, he declares, the chances of conceiving are very low indeed. "The oldest woman I know was about 47 when she bore a living child," he states.

According to Dr. George Ryan, who teaches obstetrics and gynecology at the Harvard Medical School, mature women "have fewer unplanned pregnancies, because they're much more informed now about contraception."

Doctors don't see as many "menopausal babies" as they once did, he notes. "If a woman thinks she might have conceived, however," he says, "she no longer need spend time in fear and trepidation that she might be pregnant." Excellent tests are available, he points out, to indicate within two weeks of the missed period, whether the woman is pregnant or not.

TEASING FAMILY

Dear Margaret Brookfield: I'm 41 and have just started back to college to complete my degree in elementary education. When I'm done, I hope to be a first-grade teacher. My main problem, however, is a lack of self-confidence. My husband and two teenage children don't help me with this at all. Instead, they always give me a bad time. They make fun of the fact that I'm a student at my age. Sometimes I feel like quitting the whole thing.

N. A.

Dear N.A.:

Don't let your family intimidate you. Concentrate on the job you've set out to do and get that college degree. You're not alone. These days many mature women go back to school. (They're more strongly motivated as a rule and get better grades than the younger generation.) Why not try brushing your family off when they start to tease you? Go about your business as though they're not bothering you at all. After a while, they'll probably get bored and stop. Instead of trying to get your family's approval, who not put your energies and your interests into the school work itself. The best way to acquire self-confidence is to do some.

N. A.

thing you like and to do it well.

REQUESTS REHABILITATION

Dear Margaret Brookfield: I'm 40 and have four children, ranging in age from 9 to 13. I had two years ago I was afflicted with multiple sclerosis. Before my marriage, I was a receptionist and did some typing. I've always liked typing and managed to keep up my skills in it over the years. Although I get around with a cane now, I drive a car without difficulty and am healthy otherwise. There must be others with multiple sclerosis who hold jobs. My difficulty is I just don't know where to start.

B. F.

Dear B.F.:

You might begin by contacting your local chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society. They should be able to provide you with information on special placement or rehabilitation programs for people in your situation. Since you do have your typing skills, you might also job-hunt through regular channels as well. Why not check the newspaper ads and employment agencies in your community to look into the possibilities of either part-time or full-time work?

CONFIDENCE GONE

Dear Margaret Brookfield: I'm 47 years old. My children are grown and I would like to find a job. But I find my confidence is gone. The ads in the newspapers seem to want young girls. As far as I can tell, there's not much demand for an older person.

Dear S. E.:

The way to answer one letter is not usually with another, but the following might well have been written with you — and others like you — in mind, it reads:

THE STIRLING NEWS-ARGUS, Wednesday, October 11, 1972 5

"I'm 53 years of age. Half my family is grown, and away from home. The other half, ages 11 and 15, are still in school. Last year I decided I wanted to get back into the business world so I applied to several companies. Luckily, the place nearest my home called me. I've been there 10 months now and am so happy this company gave me a chance." To begin with, the writer of that letter placed her application with a number of companies; she had a positive outlook and it produced positive results for her. She discovered, as many of her contemporaries have, that companies like to hire mature women because they're usually more conscientious and reliable. So, instead of sitting home and believing no employer wants you, why not start to job-hunt actively and positively. You may find out there's a job in your future.

Mount Pleasant

(By Mrs. Percy MacMullen)
Mr. and Mrs. Jim MacKay, Hamilton, spent last week with their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Merrick.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Jeffs are holidaying this week with their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Clive Jeffs, St. Catharines.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Jeffs, Oshawa, spent the weekend with relatives here.

A pretty wedding ceremony was solemnized on Saturday, October 7th, in Mount Pleasant United Church when Joyce Helen Jeffs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jeffs and John Robert Cosbey were married, with Rev. W.C. Cox officiating. The reception was held at Island Park Pavilion.

The funeral of Gordon Edward Linn, who died on Thursday following a lengthy illness, was held Sunday afternoon at the Hogle Funeral Home with Rev. W.C. Cox officiating.

Percy MacMullen travelled with the Stirling Senior Citizens on a scenic tour of the Gattineau Parklands. The chauffeur was Franklin Smith of Marmora and 45 members of the club and their guests were the passengers. The fog in the morning was heavy until they reached Kaladar. The trees and shrubs were very colourful in some places while the rest was various shades of green. The Champlain Park gave a vivid picture of the countryside for many miles in the distance.

At the former MacKenzie King Estate a half hour was spent touring the grounds and the Museum.

Moorside in the beautiful Gattineau Park was made an historic site in 1964. The National Capital Commission is responsible for the preservation of this historic site previous to the death of William Lyon MacKenzie King, former premier of Canada. On July 22, 1950 he had willed all of his Kingsmere properties to Canada as a thankoffering for the opportunities of public service, which the people of the country have given.

The group enjoyed their dinner at night at Perth on their return journey and arrived in Stirling at 8:15 p.m.

How a newspaper operates

(BY LYNN JONES)

For over 100 years newspapers of various types have been an integral part of our lives, regardless of the nation in which we live. In some countries, especially what we would term the "democratic" ones, newspapers have often played a vital role in developing the nation's policies, electing or rejecting their politicians, while in the loosely termed "Communist" lands, newspapers have become mouthpieces of the government, stating only the policies and giving the "approved" news and views in staid, official language.

We in North America, and especially in Canada and the United States have had a better treatment. Newspapers and their publishers have often appeared in movies and been depicted as influential forces in the opening up of the country and bringing the information of the day to the reader.

Letter to the editor

Ed. Note: Following the publication of the front page editorial letter two weeks ago, copies were sent to all candidates in the Prince-Edward-Hastings and Hastings ridings. The only reply so far received is the following from Richard Lunn:

Dear Sir:
The problem with Canada's Post Office springs from the Tories' use of Tory to describe either a Progressive-Conservative or a Liberal obsession that everything must pay. If it doesn't make a profit, it's no good. This has led to the deterioration of our national rail networks - particularly in respect to passenger service - and to a postal system that must be the laughing stock of the Western world. (The Americans aren't laughing, they're in the same boat as we are, having been governed by Tories for 200 years.)

An efficient postal service is going to cost money. There is absolutely no question about that. What Canadians have to decide is how they want to pay for it. Should those who use it most pay most by increased rates? Should a postal service be subsidized out of other revenues? One way or the other, a postal service must be paid for and to pretend otherwise - as the Tories have been doing for the past 200 years - is to deceive ourselves dangerously.

Unfortunately, the Tories find it impossible to set an order of priorities and stick to it. Their governing (if you can dignify it with such a word) consists in lurching from crisis to crisis hoping to keep the ship of state afloat by pumping the bilges rather than by repairing the hull. Sooner or later the ship is going to founder and the present state of Canada's post office is only one more symptom of something wrong below the waterline.

Another four years of Tory rule and Stirling will look back to the good old days of the Hertz truck coming with the mail if it was when.

Thanks for bringing your editorial to my attention. I will certainly give the Post Office my close attention if the voters of Prince Edward-Hastings send me to Ottawa October 30.

Yours sincerely,
Richard Lunn,
Candidate, New Democratic Party, Prince Edward-Hastings.

ers. For this reason, people here seemingly accept the newspaper as a part of their life, missed if it isn't there, unpopular if it does not give us some particular reader wants, but through all the endless harangue, they seem to survive, stronger than ever, and ready to fight another battle.

Generally, newspapers can be divided into three general types: the "Intelligencer," such as the Belleville Intelligencer; WEEKLY, such as the Stirling News-Argus; and the "Feature," such as the Canadian Weekly, and the host of various publications of groups, such as the Bell News, the Compensation Board, and church monthly papers, varying in style and paper, content and format. Regardless of its type, all newspaper publishing falls into a general pattern of operation.

The only basic difference between the three types listed is that depending on the type, there are certain numbers of people required to perform a multitude of jobs. In a DAILY paper, or a tri-weekly, such as the Trentonian and Tri-County News, which is a unique paper, being one of the few, if not only such publication in Canada, there are various departments - administration, advertising, accounting, circulation, editorial, composing and press room. Depending on the size of the paper, there will be a department head and one or more employees. When you get into operations like the metropolitan papers, there would be perhaps sub-departments, with supervisors or foremen; as an example, a paper like the Globe and Mail has editors for numerous types of news, all under the authority of the city editor, and on up the ladder.

Weekly newspapers, such as the News-Argus, have the same departments, except the work is done by perhaps up to four or five people, perhaps even fewer, depending on the size. There are weekly newspapers in the USA that have larger staff requirements than many dailies in Canada.

The feature-type papers would also use the same general plan of operation, because in essence, if you are going to publish a newspaper to give news, regardless of the type, or the frequency, there are certain basic things that need to be done, whether one person does four or five jobs, or there are, for instance, ten people taking classified ads, as in the case of the London Free Press.

In this series of articles, we are going to try and outline the functions of the various departments. The general setting will be that of a small daily or large weekly, to keep things in perspective. Keep in mind at all times that the same routines and requirements are followed by your News-Argus, with only difference being manpower as noted.

In this first article, now that we have given a general outline, we want to deal with policy, types of papers (size), and special publications.

The policy of any newspaper is set first of all by its publisher. If it is solely owned, then the owner is the publisher. He will determine, within the limits of criteria that will be mentioned from time to time, what the policy of the paper will be.

Any newspaper's policy is a matter of debate by the readers, but it is the publisher who sets it. In the case of an independently owned paper, such as the News-Argus, the owner decides whether the paper will take a particular political stand on matters, or as some do, editorialize on the issues at hand rather than the decisions how news stories will be treated, whether a story is libelous and therefore unprintable, and similar decisions. If the newspaper happens to be part of a large group, there may be a general editorial policy for the group, allowing for local interpretations when the need arises. Or the group may allow each paper to set its own policy.

Another policy matter to be settled is that of advertising and the various matters relating to it. Although not too strongly, if in fact at all, enforced in weekly newspapers, publishers must decide when they feel it is too late with an ad or story for the week's edition. People being naturally inclined to postpone things, ads and stories could be taken right up to the time you go home, if that were possible. Readers forget there is a processing (which will be explained in this series later) involved with ALL material used in the paper, and if material is not received until late, it slows production, and thus makes for a later finishing time.

One change readers of the News-Argus had to get used to after the purchase two years ago, was that there could be no ads placed after Tuesday evening. In previous years, ads could be taken until quite late on Wednesday, but due to the change in production processes, this cannot now be done. Even in recent months, we have been trying to educate people to submit either ads or stories by noon on Tuesday. After all, people have a week between papers, and the earlier we receive material, the better it can be processed and be surer of being included.

Another decision publishers or owners must make relates to the physical size of the paper. The standard newspaper size is eight columns wide, by about 21-22 inches deep, plus of course some white space for a border. There are papers that are nine columns, six columns (usually the smaller weeklies) and tabloids, which are really a full size paper made up in half size pages. These are in half size pages. These are in half size pages. These are in half size pages.

Finally we have the specialties of the field - such things as papers or periodicals published by churches, trade unions, fraternal associations, government magazines. Here, of course, the editorial direction is dictated by the group concerned, although there will still be some one designated as publisher or managing editor or some title of that nature.

These papers have a real chance to do feature material. They do not contain what can be termed "hard news," but rather items and pictures of interest as wide a segment as possible within and even without the particular group.

9 THE STIRLING NEWS-ARGUS, Wednesday, October 11, 1972

Dental Topics

A dental researcher, is trying to isolate a powerful cement with which a tiny marine animal called Bryozoa fastens its colony permanently to shells, rocks and the hulls of ships. He believes that the glue-like substance may one day help dentists to set crowns, bridges and inlays in place quickly and firmly.

If the cement can be identified and reproduced chemically it undoubtedly would make a quick-setting material that would work as well in the human mouth as it does in the sea. Currently used dental cements require dry surfaces.

The microscopic sea creatures adhesive, which makes a permanent bond, is a sugar-based substance known to scientists as a mucopolysaccharide. Previously, it was thought that such a substance had only temporary sticking power and that just protein-based cements made permanent bonds. Other researchers have been working for years to duplicate the protein.

based cement with which barnacles fasten themselves to ships and rocks in the hope of using this substance as a dental adhesive.

But identifying Bryozoa's adhesive may be years away from success. The creatures are difficult to study because of their minute size and because they are attached so tightly to various things under water that they defy attempts to remove them intact by mechanical means.

Bryozoa larvae are therefore allowed to settle and establish young colonies on sheets of glass immersed in the sea. After a month they form a colony about the size of a fifty cent piece.

The colony is then preserved chemically and sliced into sections thin enough to be seen under a microscope. Getting the adhesive is difficult, its thickness is measured in thousandths of a millimetre.

DOLLARS & GOOD SENSE

by WILLIAM J. MARTIN
Financial Consultant to Auto Financial Services

Most young couples, even if both are working, have a hard time at budgeting because their incomes are low and their needs seem to be so high.

There's so much they want to get for their new household, and the tendency of some is to buy it all at once, sometimes on credit.

Clothes and entertainment are two other items that tend to hit a new budget hard.

As I explained before, deduct your fixed expenses and savings plan from your total take-home income to determine how much you have to spend each month on optional expenses.

These expenses are the ones that are, or should be, the easiest to control, although, like diets, it takes a lot of will power sometimes.

Lunch hours can be killers, either from shopping sprees or too expensive eating. Hobbies are another way of spending a lot without realizing it.

Don't carry too much cash with you and keep track of your expenses in a notebook as you go along.

Also, watch your credit shopping, as I mentioned, so you don't start off with a lot of interest or finance payments to make.

Finally, get together around once a week and review your budget to catch problems before they become serious. New budgets are a joint effort and need a lot of determination.

Readers' questions are welcome and should be sent to Box 5875 London, Ontario.

Father's Sunday Cookbook

New Cookbook Takes Tour Around World

by Jack Wilcox

Let's take time out for a book review.

Variety is the spice of life, and it's also the essence of a new and gorgeous meat cookbook with full color illustrations, being distributed by the Checkers board folks.

For example, the book outlines recipes from France, Spain, Germany, Latin, Hungary—from just about all over — and tells how the peoples of these lands prepare pork dishes for variety.

The real beauty of the book is the use, in the recipes, of everyday items already on your kitchen shelf. You don't have to get to a gourmet marketplace to order Scandinavian truffles soaked in Bolivian Hawberry wine.

The book, prepared for Checkers Kitchens by Parina's Gertrude Kable, a top notch home economist and nutritionist, is available from the book store in town. It's distributed by McGraw-Hill in Toronto. The name is "American Heirloom Pork Cookbook".

But an interesting twist is its availability from the man with the checkerboard necktie as well. That's

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

Anglo-Saxon in descent, Tommy, 11 years old, is a good-looking lad with blonde hair, blue eyes and fair skin. With that coloring you would expect a few freckles and he has them. He is careful about clothes and grooming.

Tommy is a most likeable boy, normally cheerful and good-natured. He is popular in his age group and gets on well with younger children. He especially enjoys adult company because he is a good conversationalist. Logical in his thinking, he likes to have reasons for expected behavior explained to him.

Tommy is enthusiastic about camping. A special interest is art and he has above average ability in it and handicrafts. He likes to play the recorder. In most areas, Tommy does average work in school but he has a poor memory and his reading is below par, so he is repeating Grade VII this year. However, his reading is showing improvement.

Tommy needs parents who will appreciate his special gifts and qualities and will not pressure him for academic achievement. It will be ideal if he can be the only child in his adoption home but that is not vital. The important thing is that he have warmth, security and permanence, with or without brothers and sisters.

To inquire about adopting Tommy, please write to Today's Child, Box 888, Station K, Toronto. For general adoption information, please contact your Children's Aid Society.

A KEEN CAMPER

where the countryfolk can beat out the townpeople.

The price, at $5.95, makes a fine addition to the kitchen library.

A great gift item as well, and certainly one that newlyweds would be delighted to have.

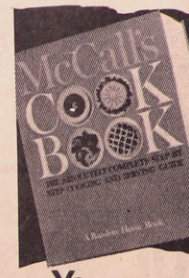

And if you're one who has noticed that pork is attractively priced these days, there is an added bonus in the cookbook which discusses "managing the budget attractively".

Why risk an empty heating oil tank on a blizzardy day?

Shell offers two words of advice to homeowners: Automatic Refill.

Automatic Refill is how Shell makes sure you don't run out of heating oil. The first time you purchase Shell heating oil, we start a record of your oil consumption and relate it to weather records and forecasts. We use a mathematical formula to figure how much oil you'll need during the year, and exactly when you'll need a refill. You won't end up the day of a blizzard saying: "I can't believe we used the whole tank." Call us soon.

ningham and the headquarters of Hastings candidate, Frank Follwell, last Wednesday. Here, Mr. Gray speaks with Mr. Follwell, right, at the

Gray says tax rise not really an increase

Minister of Revenue, Herb Gray, made a visit to the Quinte Area on Wednesday where he visited the Bata Shoe Factory and Liberal campaign headquarters of George Cunningham, Prince Edward-Hastings Liberal candidate, Frank Follwell, Hastings candidate. Mr. Gray was accompanied through the plant by Prince Edward-Hastings Liberal candidate George Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham, Trenton Mayor Duncan McDonald, Sidney Township Reeve, Jack Bush, and William O'Rourke, manager of Bata's footwear division.

Dealing with the question of the three per cent increase in personal taxes, to come into effect this January 1st, Mr. Gray said it is not really a rise in taxes, but actually temporary tax cuts being reinstated.

Furthermore, these are far outweighed by other tax cuts initiated January 1 of this year. "Phased in over several years, these are equal to or more than the three per cent temporary tax cuts mentioned," he said.

In conversation with both party workers and Frank Follwell, Hastings candidate, in Belleville during the afternoon, Mr. Gray touched most of the key issues of campaign - unemployment, foreign ownership, and low income housing and described why, so far, little emphasis has been placed on the issues during the campaign.

"Opposition leaders have read our strong Pierre Trudeau and have decided to wage a personal attack on him," he said.

Mr. Gray agreed the campaign was essentially of a "back-biting nature" so far but added as the election progresses, more and more focus will be placed on the issues.

After meeting in the Belleville Shrine Club, the member of parliament for Windsor-Waterloo, visited the committee rooms of Frank Follwell to meet with more party workers.

Rebekah lodge holds meeting

Visitors from Belleville and Thomasburg were given a warm welcome by the Noble Grand, Sister Madeline Walker, Sister Alice Adams, District Deputy President for District #4 was received and introduced by Sister Kathleen McMullen PNG. After a welcome was extended by the Noble Grand, Sister Vera Woodcock PPG presented her with a corsage from Laurel Lodge. She was escorted to the dais through a Guard of Honor formed by members of L.O.O.F. Lodge.

The Vice Grand, Sister Marjorie Stapley, reported that Sister Alice Whitehead, Past District Deputy President for District #4 was ill in Belleville General Hospital. A card was signed by all present and sent to Sister Olive.

Members were reminded of our 52nd birthday party to be held in the Temple on Nov. 14 with a 6:30 dinner being catered to by U.C.W. Ladies of Mount Pleasant Church.

The installation of officers took place with the District Deputy President, Sister Alice Adams presiding. The Guard of Honor looked very attractive in their multi green dresses. The accompanying officers were brightly colored flower prints. office. Solos, "My Task" and "Believe" were sung during the installing of the officers.

Sister Marjorie Stapley, the newly installed Noble Grand, congratulated Quintina Lodge of Belleville for the capable manner in which the staff installed Laurel officers and thanked all members for their past support and asked that it would continue throughout the new term. At this time the Noble Grand named her committees for the new year.

The District Deputy President, Sister Alice Adams, was presented with a gift from Laurel Lodge by Sister Vera Woodcock PPG and Sister Irma Clancy PNG. In her reply, she asked all Rebekah members to practice friendship, love and truth in the Lodge rooms and outside as well.

The Noble Grand of Thomasburg congratulated the installing staff and wished Laurel the best at all times. Sister Madeline Walker, Jr. PNG, thanked the Lodge for her jewel and Sister Kathleen McMullen PNG for the pretty corsage.

Insurance men pass course

Gouldie McIntyre and Lorne Watson of the Watson Insurance Agency attended a General Insurance Agents' Course at Cedar Glen, near Bolton, during the week October 22 to October 27 inclusive.

This course is provided under the supervision of the Mutual Fire Underwriters' Association and with authority and approval of the Provincial Superintendent of Insurance.

The licensing examination was written by all applicants on Oct. 27 at Cedar Glen.

Gouldie and Lorne were notified on Oct. 13 by letters from the Office of the Provincial Superintendent of Insurance, that each had passed the examination with Honour standing.

Students give three hard time

In one way or another 1,200 grade 12 and 13 students from across Hastings County told Liberal, Conservative and New Democratic party candidates exactly where they stood, last week at a true bear pit confrontation at Centennial Secondary School.

The three candidates, Frank Follwell (Lib.), Jack Ellis (PC), and Elridge Brethour (NDP) each addressed the packed auditorium, emphasizing the need for young voters, welcoming the youth population into the democratic process and in the beginning - taking a few digs at one another's party.

All three candidates agreed on at least one thing, that it would be young people in the country who would be responsible for growth and development.

With the preliminaries finished, students walked to microphones placed about the hall to quiz candidates on party policy.

No one was shy as they warmed up the candidates with inquiries on foreign ownership, unemployment, and the general financial picture of the country.

Mr. Ellis, after hearing a question dealing with truncated economy, asked if the student really understood what the term meant.

A teacher rose later to tell Mr. Ellis that students pick up much more today than we did in our schooling.

Mr. Brethour, who was seldom called upon to comment on issues, was the only candidate of the trio not to be booed during the morning session.

After replying in a lengthy fashion, a young PC campaign worker told Frank Follwell, "when you give an answer you just go on and on and on." Mr. Follwell replied, "That is your opinion."

Mr. Ellis received a hearty boo when he claimed if "we had a calm, reasonable man like Robert Stanfield in office, we would not have had the Quebec F.L.Q. crisis."

The greater portion of the questions dealt with the economy of the country, but two students did rise to the microphone to ask each of the candidates would they legalize marijuana; why and have they ever smoked it? The answers from each of the candidates to all three questions were no; no; no.

"Arrogant silence difficult to understand" - Stanfield

Robert Stanfield, leader of the Conservative party made a flying contact with the Bellevillians on Thursday.

Mainly a mainstreetsing venture, he managed to use his short stopover to launch some strong comments on the government.

He cut into the government for "arrogant silence" on such issues as inflation, unemployment and the trends of modern living on senior citizens.

Mr. Stanfield warmed in a speech delivered to the crowded downtown campaign headquarters of Hastings Conservative candidate, Jack Ellis.

"We have no intention of allowing the Trudeau government to do a snob job on the people of Canada between now and election day." "We're going to continue to put the gun to them..." said the Conservative leader. He said the Conservative party will be demanding answers on such issues as the unemployment insurance fund, scheduled tax increases, and increased old age pensions.

"I find it very hard to figure out the arrogant silence of the Trudeau government," said Mr. Stanfield.

Mr. Stanfield said that a Conservative administration would be neither "headless, heartless or ruthless" in tackling such problems. His party was concerned about the government's "very credibility" in its dealing with Canadians and the nation's integrity. "We are here because we believe this country can do better. And we believe that we can do better," said the Conservative leader.

Mr. Stanfield's mainstreetsing from Front and Campbell streets to Ellis campaign headquarters and his speech there lasted little more than 30 minutes.

Striding along with the party leader were Mr. Ellis and Lee Grills, Conservative incumbent in the riding first elected in 1957 and now retired. Both men were on hand to greet Mr. Stanfield when his helicopter first touched down on the city's waterfront near the Ontario Cheese Producers' warehouse area. This was a stopover in a trip from Peterborough to South St. Marie, George Hees, MP Prince Edward-Hastings was also there to assist in the campaigning. Mr. Stanfield was thanked for his address by Bancroft party supporter Earl Hawley.

Thomas E. Fleming was county warden

Former warden of Hastings County and postmaster at the village of Ivanhoe for more than half a century, Thomas E. Fleming died Thursday, Oct. 12, 1972 at Hastings Manor. He was in his 88th year.

Mr. Fleming, a retired general merchant and hobby farmer, took an active interest in community affairs, was a member on the former Madoc District High School Board for many years and was reeve of the township of Hungerford from 1938 until 1944.

He retired from municipal life following his term in 1944 as Hastings County Warden.

Born at Ivanhoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fleming, he had lived all his life until becoming a resident of Hastings Manor about four years ago. He had been in failing health for the past five years.

In a line of five horses, Mr. Fleming took pride in showing his horses at area fairs. He was a member of the West Huntingdon Presbyterian Church. Predeceased by his wife, the former Edna B. Bedford, he is survived by two sons, John B. Fleming of Ivanhoe and George D. Fleming of Ottawa, and a daughter, Mrs. M. (Shirley) Blaney of Cloyne.

Also surviving are a sister, Miss Bessie Fleming of Belleville and six grandchildren, five sisters and one brother predeceased him.

The funeral was held Saturday, Oct. 14 from the Mackenzie Funeral Home at Macleod for service at 1:30 p.m., conducted by the Rev. Roy Taylor of Stirling, Interment West Huntingdon Cemetery.

Clarence Dice heads Riders

The Hastings County Riders held their 1973 election of officers at the River Valley Women's Institute Centre on Oct. 2. The results of the elections are as follows: President - Clarence Dice; Corbyville; 1st - Keith Bamber, Corbyville; 2nd - Kevin Rodgers, Trenton; 3rd - Mrs. Dorothy Dice, Corbyville; Treasurer - Mrs. Irene Bamber, Foxboro.

On Sunday, Oct. 15th the club had their annual Open Competitive Trail Ride. The competitors were a portion of Murray Hills in Murray Township and stopped for noon dinner at the 1867 Service Centre on Hwy. 401, Belleville.

Adults ignore chance to query candidates

Party platforms came out for another airing at an All Candidates' Night at Centennial Secondary School auditorium Wednesday night.

The Progressive Conservatives presented two contrasting styles in their efforts to regain their parliamentary seats.

George Hees, veteran incumbent for Prince Edward-Hastings, neatly sidestepped the issue of high unemployment during the Diefenbaker regime by pointing out the low annual rise in the cost of living.

Jack Ellis, former Belleville mayor and PC candidate in Hastings, based his appeal on local issues, stating that an 11 per cent reduction in sales tax on building materials would stimulate the country's already booming construction industry.

The Liberals, too, drew from different corners for their two candidates.

George Cunningham, competing in Prince Edward-Hastings, was decidedly out-spoken as he blasted former Liberal Cabinet Ministers Eric Kierans and Paul Hellyer for "calling sour grapes" before walking out of the government.

Cunningham's elder companion was Frank Follwell, former MP trying again in Hastings, whose campaign pitch was largely a family affair. His father Teddy, was an original labor organizer, his wife Jean runs a business, his son Jim is working on a farm and he himself has tried almost everything, he said.

The New Democrats were also represented this year with their first-time, full-time candidates in this area.

Richard Lunn, journalism professor at Ryerson Institute in Toronto was the bearded scholar. When questioned about the Canadian penal system, he quipped,

"The NDP's first step would be to give Solicitor-General, Jean-Pierre Goyer a second honeymoon in Spain," alluding to Lucien Rivard's journey to Barcelona while on leave from St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary. Mr. Lunn is a candidate in Prince Edward-Hastings.

His counterpart in Hastings is Elridge Brethour, Bancroft fuel oil distributor. Mr. Brethour got off one of the evening's best lines when, after Jack Ellis accidentally interrupted him, he commented, "There go the Conservatives, trying to beat us out again."

The questions from a four member panel and from the audience covered a broad range of topics including unemployment, make-work programs, pensions, drugs, women's rights, the right to strike, northern oil deposits, bilingualism, Canadian unity, and the armed forces.

Another subject of local interest was the unemployment insurance commission and delays in benefit payments.

Mr. Hees blamed the government for its "unbusinesslike" approach while Mr. Cunningham said the solution lay in "decentralization" of payment centres.

Mr. Lunn said the NDP would create a self-supporting pension fund that would promise the elderly livable earning after retirement.

Although the evening was sponsored by the Quinte District Labor Council, the audience was largely made up of young students including a sizeable contingent of Liberal supporters from Trenton High School.

The panel was made up of William Hockley and Bert Gerling of Belleville, Kevin Quinn, a student at Prince Edward Collegiate and Carl Eisenberg of Loyalist College.

Local man hurt in car mishap

On Saturday, Oct. 14, about 8:15 p.m. George Reid, 21, of 76 St. James St., Stirling received minor injuries in a one-car accident one mile south of Madoc on highway 42. He was treated and released from Belleville General Hospital.

A nice lunch prepared by Amy Schram, Margaret Ward, Edna Sharpe and Bessie Patterson was enjoyed.

A vote of thanks was tendered Douglas Kane for donating 10 decks of washable playing cards.

Scout Council holds meeting

The annual meeting of the Stirling Valley District Council of the Boy Scouts of Canada was held at the River Valley Women's Institute Centre on Saturday, Oct. 14. The evening began with a sumptuous meal provided by the ladies of the Institute. Following dinner, Allan Wells, president of the District Council, presided over the proceedings. A most humorous but yet stimulating speech was given by Ray Duncan. The main theme of his remarks centred at the importance to develop an appreciation of life as it unfolds. He challenged the Scouters and others who are involved in youth leadership to find the positive values of life.

After introducing the head table guests, Mrs. Wells asked for the annual reports to be adopted, since all of the reports had been printed and in the hands of the assembled group. In addition to the report of the District Commissioner, Ernie Harvey of Glen Ross and the District Cub Master, Mrs. Verna Woodcock, Stirling, reports were received from the 1st Madoc Pack; 1st Stirling Cub Pack; 1st Foxboro Cub Pack; 1st

Marmora Cub Pack; 1st Plainfield Cub Pack; 1st Land O'Lakes Cub Pack; 1st Bonarlaw Cub Pack; 1st Tweed Cub Pack; 1st Land O'Lakes Scouts; 1st Plainfield Venturers.

The incoming executive consists of the following: President, James Stewart, Foxboro; Vice President - Roy Tucker, Stirling; Sec'y - Treas. - Rev. Charles Staples, Stirling. In his opening remarks as the incoming president, Mr. Stewart indicated that the work of the District Council will be given over to building up communications between the branches and the council. Dick Gorardine, Provincial Field Secretary, was present to conduct the election of the new executive.

In spite of the shortage of volunteer leaders to help in Scout training, it is hoped that the Stirling Cub Pack and Scout Troop will get started again. If any person is interested in fostering this most worthwhile movement and at the same time help young boys develop some useful skills and a healthy attitude toward life, please get in touch with Roy Tucker of Stirling.

Last week Beauty Queens vaulted into first place, and this week hounded their closest competition, Young Ladies, three games to "zip." Thus the Beauty Queens with 25 points can claim to be the best bowlers (besides being the best looking.)

The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society's story is a story of hope.... of progress of accomplishment in the fight to conquer arthritis.

THE STIRLING NEWS-ARGUS, Wednesday, October 18, 1972

Rancheros, led by Bill Reid with a hot 271-643 single and triple, took over second place with 19 points.
Young Ladies, too busy congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Peter Little, have dropped to third with 17 points.
Caprice, after five weeks of bowling, have the princely sum of 9 points. Somebody has to be last!!!

Al Boersma, despite some sloppy spares here and mostly there, leads all bowlers with a 213 average. Oh ya, he had the high triple this week too - 647.
Ruth Renout has the top average amongst the women at 178 - lower than last year's high.
This week's booby prize goes to Les Gozzard for his fine 115 single. Try a loophole, Les.

Weekly Meditation

CONTRIBUTED BY STIRLING CLERGYMEN

(By Rev. Roy A. Taylor)

"You are my friends if you do what I command you." (John 15:14). These words of Jesus sound like a one-sided relationship, but this is not true. Just prior to making this statement
He had washed the disciples' feet, demonstrating that doing things for others was appropriate work for His friends. The person who Jesus calls "friend" is servant, one whose very being is to obey the will of God in free, joyful, commitment.

No man, not even the Son of Man is his own law-maker. "My meat" is to do the will of Him that sent me," so you can see that "Doing your own thing" is not the mark of Christian freedom.
It is the sign of undisciplined animalistic action bordering on paganism; it is unconscious, demonic rebellion against the principles of Christianity.

There are two conditions to be met by friendship with Christ:
knowing and doing, and each qualifies the other. Dietrich Bonhoeffer put it, "Only he who believes is obedient, and only he who is obedient believes." The word of grace which raises a person from being a slave to that of a friend, is at the same time that which commands you to go forth doing the work of a slave. But keep in mind, there is a world of difference between forced, blind labour, and working because one sees people in need and gives that aid in the name of Christ.

Being a "friend of Christ" is an honorary title conferred by the grace of God, and once conferred, it demands being lived up to. We must overcome fear, selfishness and double-dealing, and learn that we are not dependent on blind chance, nor upon our own trial and error failures, but are the objects of the Father's love, who wills that well-being of His creation, and who is pleased to use us as His agents to His ends.

The only duty required of Christ's friends is that they point away from themselves to Him, that His friendship may deliver men and women from the hell of their own ill-made society, doing

Mount Pleasant

(By Mrs. Percy MacMullen)

At the Ontario Municipal Electric Association Convention held in Peterborough, Oct. 2nd and 3rd, George G. Montgomery of Mount Pleasant and a former Reeve of Frankford Village was presented with a Long Service Award for 25 years service as a Hydro Commissioner for the Village of Frankford.

Baby Mark Wrightman, son of
Mr. and Mrs. Allan Wrightman, Roseland Acres, spent several days last week with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Milford Wrightman.

Mrs. Robert Hoard and Miss Annie Holmes attended St. Andrew's Presbyterian tea and bazaar on Wednesday afternoon,
Oct. 11th.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shaws spent Thanksgiving weekend with Miss Jean Wagar, Hamilton.

The family of Mr. and Mrs.
Ross Jeffs entertained several friends in their honor on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. The party was held Tuesday evening, Oct. 10th at their home.

On Saturday afternoon, Oct.
14th, Mount Pleasant 4-H Girls Club entertained their mothers and a few friends at the church hall.

On Sunday, Sept. 15th Mount Pleasant Sunday School held their annual anniversary. The theme was "Learning by Doing."

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Wrightman on Thanksgiving were
Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wrightman of Havelock and Mr. and Mrs.
Allan Wrightman of Trenton.
Allan Wrightman, Roseland Acres, attended the North American trials at Mapleview, Rhode Island, over the Thanksgiving weekend. His dog, "Kentucky Lead" was the Grand Champion in all ages for Walker Fox Hounds. Another dog, 21 month old "Tex Raider" came second in a derby of two years and under.
Allan received a total of 30 trophies to carry home from the Brunswick Fox Hound Club, which is the oldest field trial club in the United States. Allan was the third Canadian winner with a Grand Champion dog. Canadians won in 1949 and 1965.

Do You Remember?

The regular meeting of St.
Paul's Young People was held in the Sunday School rooms on Tuesday, October 12th. The meeting opened with a Worship Service based on Thanksgiving and led by the Fellowship convener, Geo-gina Huffman. The President, Glen Bush, conducted a short business period. Rev. Barker conducted the installation of officers.

Stirling High School rugby squad completely outclassed
Tweed on the latter's campus on Thursday afternoon last to win easily by a score of 27 to 0. The locals lost the services of J. Reid, backfielder, in the first half, when he sustained a fractured ankle.

A party of Stirling hunters,
Messrs. Walter and Jimmy
Wright, Fred Eggleton and R.
Bruce Bell bagged a wolf while hunting in the Minto district on Monday morning. The varmint measured 5 ft. in length and weighed approximately 50 lbs.

The many friends of Mr. T.F.
Fleming, who has rendered 41 years as postmaster at Ivanhoe, extended to him their sincere congratulations upon the receipt of his Long Service Badge.

Hon. T.L. Kennedy will take succession to Premier Drew who is retiring to take up his post as national leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, a cau-sus of Progressive Conservative members of the Ontario Legislature decided Wednesday.

Rt. Wor. Bro. S.C. Wood, District Deputy Grand Master of make his official visit to Stirling

Thursday evening next, Oct. 21st.

soic Hall.

persuaded to pursue the teaching profession in her own village. As will be seen by bills just issued from the News-Argus press, Miss Conley is to sing in the Presbyterian Church on October 27th.

It is a matter for regret that our merchants cannot see their way clear to have early closing every night except Saturday. The value to both the employers and the general public could very easily adjust themselves to the change. We fancy that the business man who had courage enough to make the experiment, even alone, would get better service from his employees and would receive increased patronage from the public because of his willingness to make life easier and pleasanter for those who stand behind the counter so long that some days life is more slavery than anything else.

One of the most pleasing entertainments ever held here was given in the Opera House last evening by the Schubert Symphony Club and Lady Quartette.
Every member of the program was a treat, and was enthusiastically received by the audience.
In his violin and mandolin playing
Mr. Thos. Purcell proved himself a master of these arts. Miss de Grasse was equally pleasing in both her dramatic and humorous selections, and the singing of the Lady Quartette, a novelty in Stirling, was well received. There was a good audience present, the proceeds amounting to $62.

Presbyterian women's group holds meeting

The Thanksgiving meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Women was opened with prayer and a call to worship by the president, Mrs. Kenneth Ray. Mrs. Ray was in charge of the worship service and opened with a paper, "Thanksgiving Thoughts." All the ladies took part in the special Thanksgiving Service from the Glad Tidings with Mrs. Ray as leader. Mrs. Matthews gave a piano solo and the devotional closed with the singing of "The King of Love my Shepherd is," and the Lord's Prayer.

The offering was gathered by Mrs. Farney and dedicated by Mrs. Tompkins. The roll call and the minutes were read by the secretary. Various items of business were dealt with including catering to Presbytery in November.

The ladies are asked to please hand in their special day envelopes.

Special mention was made of Oct. 25th with the tea at Board's in the afternoon and the Fellowship meeting at St. Paul's at night.

Mrs. S. Boyce was in charge of the Study for the afternoon. She read portions of letters from Arthritis and the other rheumatic diseases cause an estimated $100,000,000 in lost wages annually. This would build 400 miles of Trans-Canada Highway.

Prof. Donald Smith M.A., Ph.D. and his wife -- now at Carleton University. These letters were written while the Smiths were in Kampala, Uganda. They told of their experiences there and described the different aspects of Uganda. Even as far back as 1966-67, it was realized that the country was politically unstable and that whoever controls the army controls the country. One very pertinent thought in these letters was "that the trades are run by the Asians (Indians and Pakistanis) and the hope that they will not be replaced with undue haste."

Mrs. Boyce pointed out that this has now happened and that the future for Uganda is grim without the Asians. This was a very interesting topic and a fitting conclusion to our African Study. The Benediction and a fellowship hour concluded the meeting.

How advertising is processed

(By LYNN JONES)

Just as money governs everything else in our daily lives, so it also dictates the success or failure of a newspaper. The staff can include the best craftsmen in the world, the best reporters and the most efficient circulation department, but if the product does not produce revenue, then it is a lost cause.

As most people probably realize, advertising dollars keep a newspaper functioning. Papers realize revenue in other forms, but only from the messages between buyer and seller is there any real volume involved.

Advertising is divided into three principal sections: Display - the ads with borders around them and spread throughout the paper; Classified - the word ads found collected together on one or more pages; and National - which is advertising done by such clients as car manufacturers, government departments, and other firms which have what could be termed a national clientele.

There is another type of ads to be mentioned here - what are called classified display. These are classified ads with little special treatment, and perhaps a small diagram or large type to make them stand out. Real Estate ads are a prime example of this type.

In advertising, more than anywhere else, deadlines are vital to the success of the operation. This is not to suggest that they are not stretched on occasion, perhaps too often, but at least they are observed in the main. The purpose of the deadline is to insure that there will be adequate time to produce the ads ready for the press. It is really senseless to take a lot of ads after the deadline if it means paying the staff overtime to have them produced, as any increase in revenue would only be gobbled up by the increased wages.

Once an ad, or the information for it arrives at the salesman's desk, certain things should happen to it. First it will be processed by the salesman to determine how large it should be, unless this may have already been indicated by the customer. One basic thing advertisers have in common, regardless of the paper, is how an ad is described. Advertising is done in terms of so many inches and so many columns, which when multiplied together give a number of column inches, which is used to determine the charge in due course. Most papers talk about the number of columns first, and the number of inches in depth second; thus a two by three means an ad across two columns and three inches deep, making a total of six column inches of space. Another example would be the term "five full". This means five columns wide and the full depth of the page, depending on the size of the paper.

The ad is now passed on to the desk where it is logged for size and goes to the composing room, to be processed. Here the various lines of type will be examined to determine size, and after being set on one of the machines, the material will be put together, to produce the form you read in the paper. Some customers like to see a "proof" of their ad before it is printed, so this has to be taken to them first for approval. This means linking the type and in reality "printing" that one ad, on what is known as a proof press, kept for just that purpose.

The same thing happens with national and classified ads, except that with the national, there is less work, as the material usually comes mostly, if not completely prepared, except for some processing which can only be done in the composing room or press room. Also with classifieds, they are mainly set on the same typesetting machines which also set the material for this story, so their processing is also much simpler.

At this point we come to one of the most important single individuals or group of them, in the newspaper plant - the proof reader. This is a job that requires much patience, diligence and accuracy, if it is to be done well. The proof reader is supposed to compare the original copy, supplied by the ad salesman, with the finished product from the composing room to see if there are any spelling or figure errors, being especially careful of addresses and telephone numbers. We well realize that even with the best efforts of all concerned, mistakes will still occur. While the aim of every proofreader may be perfection, even he realizes the odd mistake will still sneak past.

While on the subject of ads, we should mention a little about the size factor. While the customer's financial position and his wishes must of course be acknowledged, there is too often a tendency on the part of the customer to try and cram too much message into his ad. It would be better to take a little more space and let the reader see something more attractive, or take some of the items out of the ad, with a similar effect, if a reader comes across an ad that seems to be nothing but a jumbled mess, he won't read it, and thus the advertiser loses right away. If his message is to get across, it must be adequate, but also large enough to attract the attention the product deserves.

Another major newspaper term readers should understand is the difference between "letterpress" - the way papers were printed until the last few years and "offset" - which is the rapidly developing process that is in many ways superior. There are still virtues for both methods, but offset is rapidly gaining the upper hand, especially in the weekly field, where companies are being formed, and several papers are printed at the same publishing spot, saving the investment of thousands of dollars, thus reducing costs to the publishers.

Typesetting started originally by hand, and later graduated in at least some measure to the "linotype" machine, which did just what its name said, set a line of type in molten lead, which hardened into a piece of readily handled metal. In letterpress operations, all type is of this style, and even the plates used on the press are circular, leaden cylinders about half an inch thick. The best example of a letterpress operation in this area is the Belleville Intelligence.

Offset publishing is based on photography, rather than lead. The material is processed like you would with a typewriter, and the larger letters are produced on a machine which uses a different selection for each size of type. The material, when ready for installing on the press, instead of being a half-inch lead-plate, is a 1/16th inch thick aluminum plate. Along the way, the material had its picture taken, the resulting negative was chemically fused to the aluminum plate and the result is an image on the plate, which can be chemically treated to print on the blank newspaper. The Trentonian is a prime advocate of this process.

The main difference between the systems, once a paper is established, is that offset can use pictures to better advantage and better reproduction. There are technical limitations with each process but these are not of interest to the reader.

Once a paper is established in one form, it is expensive to switch unless, as already mentioned, a co-operative press company can be formed. This method has proven very successful in many Ontario centres.

Looking quickly back over the ad trail, we see that it provides the basis of the finances for the operation. Next we move to the news department, where the so-called interesting material that attracts the readers' attention is handled.

Mt. Pleasant Sunday School

(By Mrs. Percy MacMullen)

On Sunday, Oct. 15th, Mount Pleasant Sunday School observed their Annual Church Anniversary service. The service opened with all the members of the Sunday School classes and the Junior Choir proceeding to the front of the church where they sang two numbers, "It is a Small World," and "I'd Like to Teach the World to Sing," with Miss Brenda Williams as soloist.

The Junior class gave a special welcome in story form. The primary and kindergarten class, under the direction of Jill McAdam, told the story of Noah's Ark.

The Junior class presented a message, "This is Harvest Time," with Margaret Hoard as leader.

All sang "For the Beauty of the Earth."

Mrs. Kenneth Weaver gave the Meditation on the theme, "Three for me and One for you." She also dedicated the offering, gathered by Terry Butler and Ian Hubel.

A new hymn from the hymnary was sung.

Mrs. Howard Jeffs and her class presented the story of The Bishop.

The Junior boys depicted "Hunting Time."

The pastor, Rev. W.C. Cox gave a short message on the theme, "Learning by Doing."

Senior Citizens hold meeting

We were happy to have our president, Fred Heasman, back from the hospital and seemingly all in one piece again. Fred had been our popular president for four years and felt that some other member should have this honour. He thanked all officers for wonderful co-operation and called for reports from them all.

We find that we are 80 members strong and although we are not wealthy, we are not in the red financially, dis ole Scribe was elected to chair the meeting for election of officers with the following results: 1972-73 pres. - John Kane; vice pres. - Gord Bailey; treas. - Lil Heasman; card sec'y. - Luella Bronson; general sec'y. - Bob Patterson; pianist - Margaret Fitchett and Jack Senior, assistant; games committee - Nellie Montgomery and Myrtle Tanner; lunch committee - Edna Campbell and Helen Fitchett; card sorters - Everett Cook and John Ryan. All men to assist Ern Broadworth in keeping our club room ship shape. Past pres. Fred presented John with the gavel and away we go for another year of fun.

A nice lunch was served by Jessie Johnston, Helen Williams, Lil Heasman and a special donation from Hulda McIntyre.

It was agreed that we lay a wreath at the cenotaph on Nov. 11th.

The meeting closed with the singing of the birthday song for John Holmes who will be 87 years young on Oct. 23rd, followed by the Queen.

Deer Hunt Looks Good

Quinte district deer hunters can expect a successful season about the same as last year, an area natural resources ministry spokesman said recently at Tweed.

During the 1971 season about 14 of 100 hunters bagged a deer - a success rate of 14-15 per cent, he said.

Among reasons for a good hunting season was the presence of a good fawn crop, he said.

The Tweed forestry district, a ministry official in Toronto said Thursday, was Ontario's most popular hunting area, attracting 19,150 of the province's 82,200 deer hunters. Parry Sound in the Muskoka area was second with 16,700 hunters and Lindsay third with 10,500 hunters.

The season opens in the Tweed district Nov. 6th.

Walk softly but carry a big stick. That sums up the operational methods of an effective control program.

It's the theory behind pollution control, not just in Ontario, but anywhere in the world where government is serious about environmental protection.

You see, there's a basic difference between protection legislation like The Environmental Protection Act, 1971, and the Criminal Code of Canada and the Highway Traffic Act.

The last two are designed to enforce by prosecution. The first is concerned with getting results.

Generally speaking, the Ministry of the Environment is not interested in crime and punishment - collecting fines and sending people to jail.

We've failed if a polluter is fined - regardless of the size of the fine - unless he also stops polluting.

Collecting scalps in the courtroom is not nearly as important as making sure what comes out of a factory's chimney stacks and drainpipes is clean and harmless.

And legislation with its prescribed fines is just one of many big sticks. It has been used.

Since January 1, this year, 25 offenders in Ontario have been charged under environmental legislation and 22 have been convicted.

But for every one of those court cases, there has been a hundred instances where a water or air pollution problem has been cleaned up quietly and without argument.

If you tell a businessman he's losing money while he's polluting the air or fouling the water and if you can tell him that cleaner or more efficient processes will save him money, he's not going to argue. Especially if you can prove it.

Besides, an industry can gain or lose a lot in terms of public relations and public image by the way it accepts or rejects its responsibilities to the community.

Industries are usually susceptible to the sort of pressures that government and public opinion can bring to bear - much more susceptible than individuals.

Remember, industries are owned and operated by people. There are diehards who fight all the way for their claimed right to use the public skies and ground.

But there are many more who respect and care for the community where they live and work. When you give them a chance to improve, they take it.

Never be too proud to ask questions about the operation of machinery or equipment at work. Nobody wants you doing any job where you are not aware of all hazards, no matter how slight.

in marriage with Dennis Wayne Hillier.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Flieger, R.R. 4, Stirling and the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hillier, 149 West St., Trenton.

Rev. Douglas Wilson officiated at the one o'clock ceremony. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of satin peau with empire styled waistline, lily point sleeves and a scalloped lace trimmed opening on the skirt which formed a train in the back of the straight skirt. Her chapel length veil was held in place by a Juliet cap of cascading bouquet of yellow roses, rust and gold daisies and chrysanthemums.

The maid of honor, Faith Little wore a floor-length gown of deep blue crimplene fashioned with empire waistline trimmed with white lace to match the lace on the neckline, around the sleeves, and white brimmed hat. She carried a nosegay of yellow daisies with yellow ribbon. The bridesmaids Dianne Hanna and Crystal Hanna were dressed in floor-length mauve gowns styled like the junior bridesmaid Marianne Flieger, sister of the bride wore a floor-length baby blue crimplene gown styled like the other attendants. They wore wide brimmed white hats and carried nosegays of yellow daisies.

The groom was attended by Randy Walt, R.R. 3 Brighton as best man while the ushers were Sam Hillier, Murray Flieger, Gary Hillier and Fred Flieger.

A reception was held at the Frankford Legion where the guests were received by the mother of the bride. She wore a deep mauve floor-length gown with a matching jacket, black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the mother of the groom who wore a floor-length sleeveless gown of deep white color, white shoes and bag, and a corsage of yellow roses.

For a honeymoon to points east, the bride changed to a gray and white pantsuit with brown shoes and purse. They took up residence in Trenton upon their return.

Weekly Meditation

CONTRIBUTED BY STIRLING CLERGYMEN

(By JAMES F. MCGARVEY)

In Matt. 22:1-14 we read the parable of the wedding feast and the wedding garment: "The kingdom of heaven may be compared to a king who gave a feast for his son's wedding. He sent his servant to call those who had been invited, but they would not come, etc. One went off to his farm, another to his business, and the rest seized his servants, maltreated them and killed them. Then he said to his servants, 'The wedding is ready; but as those who were invited proved to be unworthy, go to the crossroads in the town and invite everyone you can find to the wedding.' So the servants went out on to the roads and collected together everyone they could find, bad and good alike; and the wedding hall was filled with guests." Why did the guests refuse to come to the wedding feast? For most of them, not because of outright wickedness, but because of involvement with home and business. The affairs of the day were more important than the call of the 'king'.

Like most such parables, this one has a meaning highly allegorized and, as in most allegories, the story as a story hardly stands by itself. It only makes sense when the reader sees what the story stands for. For instance, it would seem to us not to make sense for the guests to kill those who bring an invitation to a wedding, the destruction of guests, and burning of a city while a meal is waiting to be served. We ask what kind of a King is that? These 'examples' were not intended to be taken seriously but are used only as a means to 'drive home a point.'

One suggested meaning of the parable is to justify or explain or to defend the fact that Jesus associated with tax collectors and sinners. Those who were first invited to be his followers did not accept. He was rejected by the Scribes and Pharisees. Therefore he went to those who would accept Him.

MR. AND MRS. DENNIS WAYNE HILLIER Elaine Local 754 Mixed

Last Tuesday, Oct. 17th, the Elaine BSWU 754 league convened their regular weekly meeting at the bowling alley. The Beauty Queens continued to dazzle the fans, taking all seven points from Rancheros. After weeks of advertising, Albert Wilhelm finally broke 700. Singles of 230 and 280 helped a 727 triple. As a result the Beauty

Queens rest atop the heap with 32 points.

Young Latins took five from Caprice to take over second place with 22 points. Emma Roe finally got her errand curve ball on the head pin, but Sherion Hannah rolled the women's high single of 216. It was Keith Lake's fault that Caprice remained in last this week - 379 triple.

Next week's feature: how to lose all three games but take one point for total pinfall!!!

Again we are puzzled by the detailed story of one guest being improperly dressed. After all, he was taken from the road side. Why should he be expected to have on a Wedding Garment? But everyone else did! Then he was bound hand and foot and thrown outside. We have to assume that this man was very much at fault or he would not have been so harshly treated. Again I say, we are not to take the details too seriously. They are intended only to 'drive home a point.'

I suggest that this Wedding Garment is symbolic of 'good deeds.' No matter what one's previous life has been, now that they have been invited to 'be followers of the Lord' they are expected to be worthy of the invitation. This worthiness is demonstrated or proved by the performance of 'Good Deeds.'

The story of the Wedding Feast and the Wedding Garment has a meaning for us. We have been invited to be followers of Christ and we are expected to accept that invitation and to live according to the teachings of the Lord Jesus.

Voting Day

Next Monday is the day of decision for Canadian voters. Within their hands lies the choice of government for the next four years in Canada, and in so doing, generally selecting the policy that this country will follow during that period. The basic decision facing the electorate is whether to renew the mandate of the present Liberal government, under the leadership of Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, or to give Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield or New Democratic chief David Lewis their opportunity to form a government.

By past standards this election has been quiet comparatively. The general theme, except in a few instances, has been numerous small rallies, with the emphasis on speaking to small groups and participation in open line radio programs. This may be the style of this election, but it seems to lack the opportunity to try and outline new programs which would be implemented by the successful party.

In our own area, candidates in both Prince Edward, Hastings and Hastings ridings have appeared on special radio talk shows, and other than personal problems, there seemed to be a lack of questioning about substantial issues. It is true that unemployment drugs, and to a certain degree foreign ownership were mentioned, but there did not seem to be any clear cut program advocated on behalf of any party.

This will make it difficult for the first-time voter to try and really decide which party he or she favors, leaving aside those who will follow family or riding traditions which are certainly a factor in many cases. The principal issue of the PC's is "we can do better," but not saying how, really, while the NDP has been hammering mainly at the corporate tax situation, which Lewis admits is not the fault of the companies, but rather the structure under which allowances are granted, giving huge tax benefits in various ways. The Prime Minister has been saying that his government has done a good job, which is his only course, but has not really offered the Canadian people any new ideas which would try to overcome the problems we have.

The sad part, it seems, is that we may be faced with a minority government, not necessarily in the number of seats gained by any one party, but in the fact that a small percentage of the general electorate may end up voting in the new leadership. Canada has never been noted as an enthusiastic voting country, and unless there is more interest in the election than has been evidenced in this part of the nation, it seems many may take October 30 with another big yawn, and say in effect, "Who cares?"

The danger in this attitude is that with a small vote turnout, regardless of the riding, the candidate elected would not have a mandate from the majority of the voters, even though he won the contest from the votes actually cast. And with the three-way race in most ridings, the winner is quite possibly not to have a plurality over his two opponents. Seems complicated, but true.

The biggest favor Canadians can do to themselves within the next few days that remain, is to make a positive resolution themselves to go and vote for the party and/or candidate of their choice, and also try and arouse interest of their friends to make sure as many of them vote as possible.

The democratic, secret ballot is one of the few things each individual has left, that is not governed by legislation in some way, so let's all make sure we use it every chance we get.

Dear Mr. Editor:
Stirling Branch 228 of the Royal Canadian Legion are anxious to learn of the names of all "Silver Cross Mothers" (or their closest next-of-kin) who reside in this area. Many are already known to us, however, in our mobile society, many others may be in our midst unknown to us.

The Legion would sincerely appreciate hearing from any "Silver Cross Mothers" or their closest next-of-kin so that we may up-date our files. Arrangements are being made to afford all Silver Cross Mothers (or their closest relative) an opportunity to place a wreath at the Stirling or Rawdon Cenotaph on November 11th. We would deeply regret not knowing of someone in our area who is entitled to this honor.

Stirling Legion sincerely invite any Silver Cross Mother to contact Secretary Bert Bastedo or myself on or before Thursday, Nov. 1st in the above regard.

Thanking you on behalf of Branch 228, I am,
Yours Sincerely,
Doug Patterson,

Wellman's Corners WI Merrie Bowlers

Mrs. Bruce Stapley was hostess at the hall for the October meeting of Wellman's Women's Institute with 11 women in attendance.

Mrs. John Carlisle presided and opened the meeting with the Ode and Lord's Prayer. The roll call "What you would do in case of a traffic accident" brought a good response.

Plans were made for catering to a farm sale, a card party in November and the Christmas concert.

Mrs. Gerald Russett reported the current events. Mrs. John Carlisle contributed to the Birthday Box. Mrs. Kenneth Tompkins prepared the motto: "Running people down is a bad habit whether you are a motorist or a gossip."

Mrs. Byron Seeley, convenor for this meeting, introduced the guest speaker, Mr. David Giddon, a local insurance man. He gave a very informative address pertaining to automobile accidents, insurance and traffic hazards. Mrs. Kenneth Tompkins thanked Mr. Giddon for his very interesting talk and presented him with a gift.

Mrs. Jim Pollock sang a solo and Mrs. Jody Sager contributed piano music. A contest was conducted by Mrs. Byron Seeley. The meeting closed with the Mary Stewart Collect and God Save the Queen.

Refreshments were provided by the hostess and her assistants Mrs. Jim Pollock, Mrs. John Carlisle and Mrs. Douglas Clancy.

The Merrie ones sure believe in passing the buck. No one wants high scores two weeks in a row. They let us go the rounds. This week Marion Palmer came through with the high single of 247. Barb Noble had high triple of 628 and has the present high average of 193.

Other over 200 games were rolled by Barb Noble 205, 238; Isabel Hutcheon 200.

"Belles" took the whole 7 points on Mildred Fraser's "Dingalings." It seems the big bells rang the louder. Maybe not for long. Let's watch 'em. Those "Dingalings" of Bessie Hewison's took 5 points leaving Lorna Wrightman's "Meatheads" with 2.

Now the Dingbats have moved to the lead with 14 points, the Belles a close second with 12. The Meatheads and Dingalings are each holding an even 8. Let's hope these gals loosen up. You just can't bowl tied.

On Oct. 18th the Merrie Ones were still passing the High Ones along. This week Helena Oosting had high single of 228 and high average of 628. Barb Noble holds high average right now of 186. Other over 200 games were rolled by Dilly Montgomery 200; Nellie Smith 213, 218; Ruth Glover 205; Helena Oosting 207 and Mildred Fraser 220.

Isabel Hutcheon's Belles gave Lorna Wrightman's Meatheads a rough time, taking the whole 7 points. Bessie Hewison's Dingbats shared with their opposition taking 5 and leaving Mildred Fraser's Dingalings with 2.

The present standing is:
Dingalings 10 points
Meatheads 8 points
Belles 19 points
Dingbats 19 points

The Printed Word How news is handled

While most people think of the word editorial as the special comment of the editor, the term also applies generally to all phases of news collection, writing, editing and also related items such as wire service, photography and photoengraving.

Perhaps the first item in this article should be to define the various items that appear in papers under the direction of the editor.

NEWS - this relates to the general stories of all nature that are either submitted by mail, in person, or gathered by the staff. Also included in this, as far as daily newspapers are concerned, is the material that comes over the Canadian Press wire service, a co-operative agency, used to collect and disseminate news from distant points. These stories can be readily identified first by their "dateline" where the story happened and also in brackets such combinations of letters as (CP) (AP) (UPI) and (Reuter). The first is Canadian, the second pair American and the final one Dutch.

FEATURES - are special stories about human interest things, usually with one or more pictures to illustrate it. They can be about people, events or animals, or industry, business or commercial ventures. Any who read daily papers regularly know that certain writers usually specialize in areas. Features are used to liven up the pages of a paper, usually as a local nature, and allow a little more latitude in expressing opinion than an ordinary news story.

EDITORIALS - columns, specials - i.e. a medical column or advice column. The lead editorial, if there is more than one, is an expression of the paper's opinion of the subject mentioned. They are written in an impersonal nature, with the intent that it is the newspaper speaking, not any one person. It is true that in smaller papers, people soon get to know who writes the editorials, and even if more than one person contributes, differences appear. Editorials can be critical, but must be factual, and the opinion cannot be slanderous or libelous.

Opposite to these are the columns that appear, with either the writer's name (known as a by-line) or at least some identification shown, so that the reader can readily associate the views with a certain person. In columns, the writer is allowed to express personal opinions, but again is governed by the same general rules as editorial writers. Like feature writers, columnists quite often specialize, particularly with larger papers, where they are assigned a certain field or "beat."

While they may look like columns, specials can be identified as a continuing series, such as writers on the editorial pages of the Intelligencer and Trentonian, who cover the political scene in Ottawa and Toronto, as well as other special fields such as foreign affairs, finance, etc. These people are able to give local angles to happenings in these locales that might otherwise not be reported.

PHOTOGRAPHY - is another specialized field. A paper may have one or many photographers.

Faith Unit holds meeting

Faith Unit of St. Paul's United Church Women met on Tuesday, Oct. 17 with 25 ladies in attendance. Mrs. W. West received at the door. The leader, Mrs. Carman Fitchett, opened the meeting with a reading about problems which we all have, and can use either as stumbling blocks or as stepping stones. She then led in prayer with all joining in The Lord's Prayer. The hymn, "Savior, Like a Shepherd Lead Us," was sung.

After the business and announcements, the program was led by Mrs. W. Harlow assisted by Mrs. R. Rose. The theme, "Thanksgiving" was carried out in several hymns and readings. Psalm 107, "O Give Thanks Unto the Lord" was read responsively. The roll call was responded to by naming something to be thankful for. The story was told of the writing of the hymn, "The Ninety and Nine" by Elizabeth Clephane in Scotland in 1830. It had reference to her brother, George, who died a drunkard and is buried at Fergus, Ontario. His grave is marked by a figure of a lost sheep. She believed God loved him, though a sinner. This hymn was used by evangelists, Moody and Sanky, and helped to produce a great wave of conviction sweeping Scotland. All joined in the singing of this hymn. Mrs. Rose read a meditation on thanksgiving, prepared by Mrs. R. Chambers, stressing the importance of giving thanks immediately, and also being conscious of the many commonplace blessings so often taken for granted. Mrs. Harlow read a poem about good intentions to be carried out "Tomorrow."

Mrs. Fitchett closed the meeting with prayer after the singing of "For the Beauty of the Earth" and thanking those who had taken part and prepared the sumptuous repast which followed.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Cooke returned home Sunday after spending a week in Georgetown with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jason Field. Mr. and Mrs. Everett Cooke spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Jim McIntosh and boys of Oshawa.

determined by (a) its length and importance; (b) where it may be needed to fill a particular spot on a page. The heading, with certain designations used in the trade, is written on a separate piece of paper, a catch line (the first two words and heading size) put on the story so the two can be later reunited, and on it goes to the composing room. Some special stories or ones that need particular scrutiny for any reason, may be returned to the editor for further checking before being put in the paper.

One of the most important decisions in the editorial department is what events should be covered in person by a reporter, or via a telephone call to some person connected with the event sufficient to get details. Here again, staff size plays a major role. This explains why some events do not get the coverage participants may feel they deserve, or perhaps notice was not given in time. Reporters or photographers cannot be in two places at once, so advance notice of such events is important to all concerned.

In the next article, we will see how the advertisements and stories are correlated to make up pages as they appear in the paper.

Stirling Horticulture Holds Meeting

(By Mrs. Percy MacMullen)
On Monday, Oct. 16 Stirling Horticultural Society convened at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church hall for their monthly meeting with an attendance of 42.
The president, Mrs. Floyd Armstrong opened with The Lord's Prayer and Gardener's Prayer and a welcome to all. In the absence of the secretary, the minutes and correspondence were read by Mrs. Raymond McConnell. Mrs. Grant Rubble gave the financial report which included profits from the recent bus trip to Stratford.
The signatures were recorded and a garden book will be ordered. If suitable, several members will purchase a copy.
Mrs. Carman Nix outlined plans for a bus trip to the Royal Winter Fair in November and probably a special tour early in December.

A large bouquet of cut flowers was placed on the president's table by Mrs. W. Haggerty. This contained a white lily bloom, yellow roses, wintergreen berries and other flowers. She also brought a box of slips for the members to carry home. Some could be placed in water to grow.

A plant grown from a pineapple top, by Mr. W. Ashby, was displayed.

Miss Annie Holmes showed a lovely pink, floral table centre fashioned from egg cartons which she had received from Farewell, Michigan.

It was reported that the Friendship Secretary has sent out 37 cards since June.

Another donation was given to the Junior 4-H Horticultural Club to assist with their project.

The final plans for the 75th anniversary were completed. All the members are invited to a pot luck supper on Monday evening, Nov. 20 at 6:30 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church hall. The directors are responsible for the program and the president will provide the birthday cake. Those wishing to attend must send in their acceptance early in November.

The program opened with a reading by Miss Gena Spry entitled "The Formula for Keeping Geraniums," written by a lady from Downsview. It stated, "pull out the geraniums just before the frost, shake off all the soil, spread on a newspaper and dry on the floor of a heated basement for ten days. Then wrap in three or four layers of newspapers, just as the florist wraps roses for his customers. Leave the tops open and fold up the base. Tie your bundle securely with string and put in a dark corner of your basement and forget them till next May. Then remove all dead leaves, prune the stems four to six inches, soak the roots in water using Dison's Vitamin according to directions, for two days before planting." This is a variation of the hanging upside down technique.

Mrs. G. Hogle showed a large array of pictures taken in England, Scotland, Nassau and points in the Bahamas, also the beautiful Hershey and Lomond Gardens in Pennsylvania. All were places that she had visited. The scenes were very colorful with lovely flowers, shrubs, mountains, castles, etc., and her commentary was very interesting.

Mrs. Maurice Clancy conducted

ed a tree and flower contest and prizes were awarded to the winners.

Mrs. Harry donated several packages of small tulip bulbs and these were distributed by number.

The refreshment committee, Mrs. G. Hogle, Mrs. G. Apperley, Mrs. M. Ward, Mrs. A. Carson, Mrs. N. Wannamaker, Miss Gena Spry and Mrs. M. Clancy served pumpkin pie and tea or coffee.

Mrs. Oscar Merrick voiced thanks for the program and lunch.

Burning Rectal Itch Relieved In Minutes

Exclusive Healing Substance Relieves Pain As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids.

If you want satisfactory relief from "Itching Piles"—here's good news. A renowned research laboratory has found a unique healing substance that promptly relieves the burning itch and pain—actually shrinks hemorrhoids. This substance has been shown to produce a most effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In case after case "very striking improvement" was noted, even among cases of long standing. And this improvement was maintained over a period of months!

This was accomplished by a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulate growth of new tissue. Now Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation "H". Ask for it at all drug stores—satisfaction or money refunded.

DUCKS UNLIMITED CAIRNS

Tributes to international co-operation in waterfowl conservation: concrete cairns with bronze plaques are erected on D.U. Donor Projects. Funds for construction and management of these projects, have been donated by various states, groups or private individuals. Plaque inscriptions include the name or names of contributors, Canadian and Provincial Government and Municipalities. Landowners are also acknowledged for their part in making the project possible. Over one thousand projects have been built by Ducks Unlimited, conserving some 2,000,000 acres of valuable wetlands since 1938.

TREMENDOUS TRIFLES

THE UNWELCOME GUEST WHO SECURED SIBERIA FOR RUSSIA

If the Russian Cossack chieftain, Yermak, had been a more desirable guest—or if the Czar's emissary could have stopped him in time—Siberia today might not belong to Russia. It all happened like this:

It was in the reign of Czar Ivan IV. The Cossack, Yermak, and his band of fierce followers (more noted for their bravery than morality) refused to submit to the Czar's iron rule, left Moscow and swept down to Perm. To the settlements of one Stroganov, Ivan made no objection to the band's departure. In fact, he was too pleased to get rid of them.

But in Perm, Stroganov found the unruly warriors quite unpleasant guests. Not wanting to stir up the band or incur their enmity, Stroganov thought of a way to rid himself of them diplomatically. He suggested to Yermak that he and his warriors cross the Urals into Siberia and take that vast and sparsely settled land from the Tartars. And he agreed to help Yermak with supplies, food, and arms.

In 1580, Yermak set out for the land beyond the Urals. He had 1,636 men with him, and before long they had crossed the mountains and were in Siberia. They traveled along the Tagil and Tura Rivers and the next year, in 1581, were on the Tobol. There they prepared to lay siege to the residence of the Tartar Chief Khan Kuchum, near what is now Tobolsk.

When the Czar learned of Yermak's plans to attack the Tartars he was badly frightened. He feared to stir up the fierce Tartars and dispatched an emissary with frantic orders for the expedition to turn back. But it was too late. Yermak and his band had already engaged the Tartars who possessed an army thirty times as large, and with customary fierceness and fearlessness, administered a crushing defeat. The Tartar Chief fled to the Steppes.

Later, Yermak made his peace with Ivan IV. He was restored to favor when he presented to the Czar the nucleus of what is today—Siberia!

It all began because the wily Stroganov tried to send a wild Cossack on a fool's errand and because the Czar's messenger was too late with an order to turn back.

CBC-TV's popular show for youngsters Drop In has undergone some changes this season. The show is now seen five days a week at 4:30 p.m. (5:00 p.m. Nfld.) There are now hosts in eight locations instead of just Toronto and Vancouver as was the case last year. One of the additions to the Toronto Drop In gang, and a plus in anybody's book, is pretty Lynne Griffen pictured above. Lynne shares the Toronto hosting duties with three others.

Fee structure to remain

He said in an interview, the fee and loan increases are "a fact of life" and the government is satisfied with them.

On Oct. 11 and 12 an estimated 40,000 students voted 90 per cent in favor of withholding winter fees.

Mr. McNie said he is willing to hold further talks with students about the student-aid system, but would not yield on tuition fees.

Could you keep your farm in the family under Trudeau's tax laws?

Think about it!

If you are counting on the proceeds of selling your farm within your family, to enable you to retire in modest comfort...

If you are planning on leaving your farm to your children...

Think again!

The Trudeau government has imposed laws that will force your estate, if you die, to pay capital gains tax on the increase in the value of your farm, as though you had sold it at market value at the time of your death. If you sell the farm within your family, you will also pay capital gains tax on the basis of market value, regardless of the price at which you actually sell.

The value of your farm was pegged for purposes of this tax on December 31, 1971. Half of any gain over this value will be taxed as income when you sell it or when you die. To "compensate" for inflation, you may deduct a basic $1,000, plus an additional $1,000 for each year after 1971 that you own the farm and live on it. This allowance won't begin to cover increases in value likely to occur in the next few years, particularly with rampant inflation.

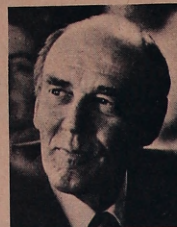

You are well aware that your costs have been going up—but your income hasn't. And now the growth in value of your farm is to be taxed away as well.

The Progressive Conservative candidate in your riding is concerned about this, and is dedicated to two goals:

- The expansion of agriculture as a profitable industry
- The preservation of the family farm as a way of life.

"A P.C. government would ensure that the capital gains tax does not apply to average-sized farms within a family unit. That's a commitment!"

Robert Stanfield
